GANG OF YEGGMEN CAME TO DYNAMITE PRISON?

Warden Moyer, of Federal Penitentiary, Had Prepared for Defense.

SHOTS HAD BEEN FIRED AT GUARDS ON PATROL

Rumor Had It That Cannon House Gang Were Making Effort To Liberate Their Pals—Matter Reported to the Police.

The report leaked out from official sources yesterday that the nine alleged safe crackers arrested in the Cannon house last Thursday composed a gang, or were members of a gang, who were in Atlanta for the purpose of dynamiting the United States penitentiary, in south Atlanta, for the purpose of liberating certain members of this gang who are now confined in the institution, and members of other gangs who are serving sentences at this same prison for highway robbery and the holding up of trains in the west.

The report has it that the men arrested are believed to have come to Atlanta principally for the purpose of making a delivery from the federal prison of some of their pals, and that they found out that other men were here for the purpose of freeing, by similar means, several of the real bad men who are serving time for highway and express robberies. The report has it that there is also at least one woman who has been aiding in the work of making this delivery, for the purpose of rescuing her husband, who is now a prisoner.

Warden Moyer, of the federal prison, when asked regarding the report, said that he could not make any statement, although he admitted that one of his guards had been fired on a short time before the men were arrested, and had returned this fire, and that previous to this another guard had fired on two men who were about the institution shortly after midnight.

Defensive Steps Taken.

The warden, when asked as to whether any preparations had been made in the way of preventing such an attack, stated that every precaution had been taken for any such attempt, and that every possible arrangement had been taken to make the outside sentry service of the pentientiary so perfect as to make it cost the life of any unknwon man who tried to get within 200 yards of the prison at night or at any other time.

Warden Moyer also stated that Harry Swain, one of the nine men arrested in the gang, had been liberated from the federal prison about January 20. While serving his sentence he had the reputation of being a good prisoner, so far as his conduct in the institution was concerned. It was after his liberation that an attempt was made to shoot Officer Lee, one of the outside sentries on duty at the prison, and that this fire came from the darkness beyond the big circle of electric arc lamps which light up the federal reservation for several hundred yards from the building where the prisoners are confined.

Warden Moyer also stated that it was believed that there were two prisoners now in the institution who belonged to this same gang, some of the members of which were arrested at the Cannon house last Thursday.

As to the inmates in the federal prison, it is known that they include members of some of the most noted gangs which were for years the terror of the western country.

To Blow Prison Open?

According to report, some of the members of the gang recently arrested were in Atlanta for the purpose of effecting some entrance to the big institution, for the purpose of liberating their pals, in for long terms of service. As the United States penitentiary is built along the most scientific lines for the prevention of any escape, it is believed that the intention of the gang was to blow up some portion of the big cell block with nitroglycerine or gun cotton, and take chances on liberating the prisoners they were after, even if the explosion necessitated the killing of some of the prisoners of the institution, as well as the guards and officials on duty, and those who sleep in the prison while off duty.

It is believed that Harry Swain, who was liberated but a few weeks ago, January 20, was relied upon to give such information concerning the cells of those men whom they wanted to liberate that this explosion would be confined to a part of the building farthest away from the cells occupied by those for whom the attempt was to be made. It would seem that this would necessitate considerable risk of killing some of the very men they wanted to liberate, but the boldness and daring of the entire scheme indicate that great risks were not considered in the planning of the attempt and that the would-be rescuers were willing to take long chances and rely on luck and their knowledge of how to use some fearful explosive to the best possible effect.

Desperate Character of Gang.

The report further shows that the members of this gang who attempted to make the rescue, have been carefully laying their plans and that if some safes were cracked open near Atlanta, it was simply for the purpose of providing the means for carrying out the one great ocasion for the gathering of the gang for the purpose of making the greatest prison delivery ever known. But for the fact that it was for rescuing prisoners who are now confined who have themselves taken the longest possible chances in the committing of the crimes for which they are now incarcerated, the entire scheme would seem to be almost

TO THE RIOT TOCSIN CIVIL SERVICE IS PUT IN BY THE POLICE BOARD

City Attorney Mayson Insists That the Action Was Illegal.

ONLY SIX MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION WERE AT THE MEETING

Commissioner Orion Nunnally Requested Chief Joyner To Sound the Riot Call To "Test the Members of the Police Force."

With a suddenness that would have done credit to a first-class cyclone, with a rush that would have startled a football team, and with the loud alarm of the fire bell ringing out a riot call, six members of the police board met yesterday morning and declared the police department under civil service.

After accepting the resignations of the policemen who had decided to resign about three or four months ago, when civil service was first talked of, the six members reelected the officers just as they had stood. The fire bell rang a riot call, the members of the force assembled at the barracks and were all sworn in by Chairman Nunnally.

The six members who were present were Nunnally, Fox, Johnson, Woodward, Oldknow and Venable. The two who were conspicuous by their absence were Terry and Brandon.

The important question is: Will the action of the six members stand? The city attorney has declared that such action could not be legal; a majority of the council, it is said, have agreed with the city attorney.

There is to be a fight—a legal and a political fight—such as Atlanta has not been a party to for many years, and which, with all its record for turbulent times, the police board has never before encountered.

It Was a "Coup D'etat."

It was what the French call a "coup d'etat." The old police board was going out of business yesterday afternoon, when Commissioners Johnson and Fox retired in favor of Commissioners English and Woodside. Messrs. Fox and Johnson had got their men into office on the police force at the last general election, and if civil service had not been rushed through yesterday morning, there was a probability that at the next general election some, if not all, of the men they had elected would have their official heads chopped off. They had to act and act quickly.

The other members of the board who participated in the meeting yesterday say that the reason they wanted a meeting at once was because Fox and Johnson had been such loyal men to the interests of civil service that it was only right and proper to let them taste some of the fruits of victory.

Then that riot call. Chief Joyner, of the fire department seems not to have had a clear understanding of the situation. He says that Chairman Nunnally told him the riot alarm was wanted to "test the members of the police force."

The action of yesterday was taken in the face of an opinion from the city attorney, who has explicitly declared that if as many as twelve members of the department refused to resign, the board could not legally institute civil service until the next general election. He still sticks to that opinion. Mayor Woodward says he was acting under an opinion by the state's attorney general, who claims that the civil service charter amendment was a state law, and the mayor says the attorney general has told him that if a majority of the policemen resigned civil service could be instituted.

Number Not Resigning.

There is some misunderstanding about the number of men who have not resigned. The records before the police board yesterday showed that only sixteen had not resigned. The correct list makes the number over twenty, not to mention about twenty-five supernumeraries.

Judge Pendleton has decided that a "supe" has as good a contract with the city as a regular patrolman.

Counting only the sixteen the board took cognizance of, that is four more than the city attorney says is a "substantial number."

But opinion or no opinion, council or no council, the six members who met yesterday have issued their manifesto and announced to the people that under their ruling the present members of the police force, from chief down to hostler, are holding their jobs for life.

Since the six members have taken this bold stand, some police political history is being recalled and the way in which the present force was elected last April is being discussed. In this connection the story of a caucus between five of the six is told, when Mayor Woodward, Councilman Oldknow and Commissioners Johnson, Fox and Nunnally got together and selected the officers; but that story will be told nearer the end of this eventful police sensation.

Just how the meeting yesterday was planned, how it originated and how it was so quietly called is not known. Notices were sent out by Chief Jennings notifying the commissioners that "Chairman Nunnally had called the meeting for 11 o'clock."

The Two Absentees.

Commissioner Terry did not attend, and said afterwards that he had no idea what the meeting was for and that he was too busy to leave his store. Commissioner Brandon says he did not get his notice

TERMS IN JAIL TO CURB TRUSTS SAYS WILLIAMS

Democratic Leader Opposes Fines as Punishment for Violations of Law.

WANTS STATUTE TO READ "FINE AND IMPRISONMENT"

Declares Nobody Doubts Existence of Trusts, but That Administration Has Made No Effort To Enforce Criminal Provisions of the Law.

Washington, March 5.—Legislation by unanimous consent and under suspension of the rules occupied the attention of the house today and resulted in the passage of several bills, some of considerable importance.

The adoption of a resolution of inquiry as to whether any criminal prosecutions have been begun against individuals in the Northern Securities Company, furnished the text for a speech of criticism by Mr. Williams, the democratic leader, directed against the administration.

Brief answers were made by Mr. Jenkins, of Wisconsin, and Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio. Mr. Jenkins said that the statute of limitations had run against any action that might be taken in this case and that any effort at prosecution would be useless.

Must Enforce Criminal Laws.

Mr. Williams took the floor and asserted that the people of the United States know now that only the execution of the criminal provisions of the anti-trust law will stop the violation of those laws. Injunctions, he said, would be evaded and fines would be paid and nothing short of the enforcement of the power of imprisonment will stop the violation of the law.

Mr. Williams dwelt upon the growing difficulty of impeaching public officials for not performing their full duty in executing the laws, and in that connection the wholesome influence inquiries by congress might have. He spoke of the difficulty of prosecuting the rich. He read sections of the opinion of the court in the Northern Securities case to show an effectual block to competition had been arranged and that "such a combination is more than a contract, it is an offense—a crime."

So far as he had been able to ascertain, no steps "to prosecute these criminals" had yet been taken, although one year and ten months had elapsed since the decision. Mr. Williams did not believe in a "fine or imprisonment" but in a fine "and" imprisonment. Last year, he said, the same resolution was passed and the answer had come back that it was "incompatible" with the public interest to inform the house. He had then believed this to be the fact because the decision then had just been rendered.

No Doubt as to Trusts.

Mr. Grosvenor said no jury on earth would have convicted these men. Three of the four dissenting judges in the Northern Securities case, he said, were democrats, and he predicted had there been other democrats on that bench the contract would have not been declared illegal.

Taking the floor again, Mr. Williams said no jury in the United States would fail to convict these men. There was no one within the sound of his voice, he said, who did not know there was a beef trust, a coal trust, an oil trust and many other trusts. The fact that action was now barred, he maintained, did not relieve the administration from responsibility for not taking action before the statute of limitations had run.

Fault was found with the rules of the house and the concentration of power in the speaker by Mr. Shackleford, of Missouri, who took occasion to address the house on the bridge bill.

Bills were passed increasing from $50,000 to $200,000 the sum available to supply metal for the coinage of nickels and pennies and providing that these coins may hereafter be made in the mints at Denver, San Francisco and New Orleans, as well as at present in Philadelphia. Also providing for a delegate to congress from Alaska.

The house adjourned until tomorrow.

Statehood Bill in Senate.

Washington, March 5.—In the senate today Mr. Nelson continued the discussion of the statehood bill, urging the passage of the measure as reported from the committee on territories.

The remainder of the session was devoted to the passage of bills on the calendar, among them being one providing for compulsory education in the District of Columbia and another regulating the selection of officers in the revenue cutter service.

Rome, March 5.—J. Pierpont Morgan, who arrived here yesterday, is suffering of a slight cold, but generally his health is good. He will be received by King Victor Emmanuel shortly.

THE HYPNOTIST.

GENERAL DUVALL IS COMING HERE

Assigned To Command Department of Gulf.

Able and Popular Officer, Southerner by Birth and Affiliation, Named Last Night To Succeed General Thomas Barry.

By Jos: Ohl.

Washington, March 5.—(Special.)—Formal announcement was made at the war department today of the assignment of Brigadier General P. Duvall to the command of the department of the gulf with headquarters at Atlanta.

General Duvall, who has a splendid record in the artillery corps, in which he has served for many years, is one of the most popular officers of the army as well as one of the ablest. He is a native of Maryland, from which state he entered the military academy at West Point in 1865. His service in the regular establishment has been as an artillery officer, at the time of his promotion to a brigadiership a few weeks ago being a major and member of the general staff of the army.

He was made a brigadier because of his splendid record as an artillery officer and because of the record he made in the war with Spain. At the outbreak of the war he was a captain of the First artillery. He was made a major and inspector general then lieutenant colonel and chief ordnance officer, lieutenant colonel of the Twenty-sixth infantry and in September, 1899, was made colonel of the Forty-eighth infantry, in which capacity he stayed until the regiment was mustered out, June 30, 1901. As colonel he commanded this regiment in the Philippine campaigns.

General Duvall married Miss Marie Lamar, of Augusta. He has been anxious to receive the appointment as commander of the department of the gulf, but for a time it seemed probable he would be assigned to the department of the lakes. Senator Bacon, who is a warm friend of General and Mrs. Duvall, interested himself in the matter and tonight the announcement is made by General Bates, chief of staff, that General Duvall is to go to Atlanta as department commander.

Park Howell Promoted.

Among the army orders made public today is one announcing the promotion of Lieutenant Park Howell, of the medical corps, to his captaincy.

Since the departure last winter of General Thomas H. Barry to Manchuria as one of the United States military attaches with the Russian army, Major Millard F. Waltz, military secretary, has been in charge of the local offices of the department of the gulf.

Eleven Hurt in Wreck.

Albuquerque, N. M., March 5.—Santa Fe passenger train No. 1, westbound, was wrecked at Toltec, N. M., today 90 miles west of here. Eleven persons were injured, several seriously. Five cars, including one tourist car, left the rails. The private car of Mrs. Paul Morton, wife of the president of the Equitable Life Assurance Company, was in the train, but it did not leave the rails, and Mrs. Morton escaped with a severe shaking up. J. A. Summers, of Albuquerque, may die. The others injured were Mexicans. Spreading rails caused the accident.

MENTION OF HOWELL AT THE GRAND CAUSES TUMULTUOUS APPLAUSE

For the first time since the campaign for the governorship of the state was opened the people of Atlanta last night had a chance to express themselves publicly, and when one of the principals in "The Ham Tree," at the Grand, sang, as one of his encores, an expression of hope that Clark Howell would be the next governor, the audience responded with a tumult of applause. It was the most enthusiastic expression from the audience during the evening.

The song was "Sweet Old Manhattan Isle," sung by Frederick K. Bowers, one of the principals in "The Ham Tree." He had a number of verses with local adaptations, each one of which was greeted with laughter at the humor, and applause for the sentiment.

At last, after repeated encores, he sang this verse:

"Goodby, sweet old Manhattan Isle,
"Goodby dear old Broadway,
"I'm going back to my old home
"In Georgia, faraway.
"I hope the old maids' convention, there,
"Will be an awful howl,
"And that our next governor of this old state,
"Will be our friend, Clark Howell."

As he concluded the last line, practically the entire audience burst into cheering and handclapping that made the roof echo. It was a couple of minutes before the applause died down enough for the performance to go on, and Mr. Bowers was called back then.

DONNELL AFTER LAW'S-VIOLATERS

Atlanta Government Official Gets Busy at Tampa.

Claim Is Made That Recent Appointee of Tampa Postmaster Has Violated the Civil Service Law by Soliciting Campaign Funds.

Tampa, Fla., March 5.—Civil Service Inspector Donnell, of Atlanta, has since Friday been investigating charges that a recent appointee of the new postmaster at Tampa had violated the civil service law by solicitin gfrom the employees of the postoffice contributions to the republican campaign fund during the last presidential election. The inspector has had nearly all the employees of the office before him, and it is stated that many of them are strongly dissatisfied at having to work under this official. Inspector Donnell has formulated his report for transmission to the civil service commission at Washington.

CLAIMS BANK IS SOLVENT.

Demore Expects That Trust Company Will Be Reorganized.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 5.—R. F. Demare, senior vice president of the Southern Bank and Trust Company, of this city, which closed its doors last week, arrived in Fort Smith last night from Texas, and today gave out a statement in which he says:

"The Southern Bank and Trust Company, of Dallas, Texas, is a solvent, active corporation, and is not defunct, as stated by the newspapers and others. It has not closed its doors, nor has it made an assignment. The Southern Bank and Trust Company, of Dallas, Texas, sold to Tom W. Neal the branch it had here, and the Southern Bank and Trust Company has an acceptable guarantee that the contract of Tom W. Neal will be carried out in every detail, and that he will effect a reorganization for the continuance of the business formerly contracted by the Southern Bank and Trust Company, of Dallas, Texas."

JURY IS ROASTED BY JUDGE CANN

Handles Recommendations of That Body Without Gloves.

Court Asks Why, if Violations of the Law Are So Notorious, the Grand Jury Failed To Return Any Indictments?

Savannah, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Judge George T. Cann, in his charge to the grand jury today, took up the recommendations of the last grand jury and handled them without gloves. The court freely criticised the last grand jury for adopting the report of its committee, which said that the presence of crime in the community was due in large part to the fact that the law was not enforced against gambling and open liquor shops on the Sabbath, and asked the question as to why that body did not return any indictments against alleged offenders.

The judge also asked why they did not specify who and what officers and courts were lax in their efforts to enforce the law. Judge Cann referred to the stabbing last night, and said that if this negro died and the present rate of killings kept up as they have started this year there would be twenty-five white murders and 125 negro murders during the year.

Judge Cann strongly recommended the appointment of a board of tax equalizers, who should be reappointed by the next grand jury. He called attention to the fact that a recent grand jury had found that the property of small taxpayers was returned at about half value, while that of certain rich taxpayers was returned at about one-fifth their value.

Confirmed by the Senate.

Washington, March 5.—The senate in executive session today confirmed the following nominations: James Jeffreys, surveyor of customs, port of Memphis, Tenn.; Robert D. Johnston, register of the land office, Montgomery, Ala.

CLARK HOWELL GIVEN OVATION AT MT. VERNON

Hundreds of Voters Enthusiastically Applaud His Discussion of the Issues.

HOKE SMITH IS EXPOSED AS TOOL OF TOM WATSON

"Disfranchisement" Fraud Accepted by Smith To Gain Support of Tom Watson—Doubtful Voters Are Convinced by Address of Mr. Howell.

By Fred Lewis.

Mt. Vernon, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Clark Howell spoke here today to a large and enthusiastic representation of the democratic voters of Montgomery county. There were about 300 voters present from all sections of the county, and old citizens of Montgomery say it was one of the best audiences that has ever gathered in Mt. Vernon to listen to a political speech, even during sessions of the superior court, which adjourned many weeks ago.

The audience was one that enthusiastically entered into the spirit of the occasion, and Mr. Howell's sharp and pointed sallies in reply to the criticisms of his adversaries evoked frequent laughter and applause.

Upon his arrival this morning Mr. Howell was met at the train by a delegation of leading citizens, headed by W. B. Kent, a prominent attorney, and escorted to the hotel. He spent the morning in meeting and talking with Montgomery county democrats, who came in from every section of the county, most of them with no other business than to hear the address of the day.

Prominent Democrats for Howell.

Judge Geiger adjourned the city court at 11 o'clock, shortly after which Mr. Howell was introduced to his audience, by which he was received with enthusiastic applause.

Among the prominent supporters of Mr. Howell, who sat near the speaker's stand, were Duncan McRae, leading merchant of Mt. Vernon; G. L. Adams, contractor and former clerk; W. B. Kent, M. B. Calhoun, L. C. Underwood and W. L. Wilson, prominent attorneys; Representative J. A. Sears; J. C. Calhoun, clerk of the court; Sheriff A. J. Burch; J. C. McAllister and J. A. Martin, progressive farmers; S. B. Morris, county surveyor, and Dr. J. A. Palmer, of Ailey.

Mr. Howell was presented to his audience by Hon. M. B. Calhoun, one of Montgomery county's prominent attor-

THIS BOTTLING MACHINE WAS FOND OF WHISKERS

DUBLIN, GA., March 5.—(Special.)—Ike Stinson lost a very fine growth of beard by getting some of it caught in some machinery at the plant of the Dublin Bottling works, Saturday. All of his beard under his chin was torn out by the roots, making a clean sweep of the hairs on that portion of his neck. The accident was over so quick that there was not as much pain attached to it as would be supposed.

WITH FEET IN STIRRUPS BOY'S BODY IS FOUND

SAVANNAH, GA., March 5.—(Special.)—The body of Mose Bailey, of Pooler, was aSturday night found, together with that of a mule for which the boy had been sent, in the Ogeechee river, near Meldrim. The boy was holding on to the reins, and still had his foot in the stirrup. He had been dead several days.

Sixteen days ago the boy had been sent into Bryan county for the mule. A search and an inquiry were instituted, which resulted in finding the body. It is supposed that the boy rode the mule off the bridge in the dark.

neys, and secretary of the county executive committee, who said:

"We have with us today one of Georgia's distinguished young men, a candidate for the highest office in the gift of the people of this state. He comes with a platform of sound democratic principles, and with no entangling alliances. He stands for something. This distinguished Georgian really needs no introduction to the people of Montgomery county, for he has been making daily and weekly visits to your firesides ever since the death of the great Henry W. Grady, when he became the editor of Georgia's foremost daily paper, The Atlanta Constitution. You know his record—a record which he made in the Georgia legislature, where he several times represented his county and senatorial district. That record speaks for itself, and it tells you that wherever any public question came up he was always found on the side of the common people, and exerted his best efforts in their behalf."

Mr. Howell's Views on the Primary.

Mr. Howell was given another enthusiastic greeting as he arose to address his audience. The reference to the fact that the historic old court house, in which he spoke, was located in the circuit in which his father, the late Captain Evan P. Howell, was admitted to the bar, and in the same court room that Captain Howell had fought almost his first legal battles, was loudly cheered. As he has stated in the past, Mr. Howell announced himself in favor of a most liberal construction of the party rules, one which will admit to the primary every white man in Georgia, regardless of past alliances, provided he will come back as a loyal democrat, and say that he is ready to act with the party for the upbuilding and uplifting of the state. Mr. Howell said he spoke with no malice whatever toward anyone he might mention during the course of his speech. He invited questions from the audience, and referring to his own record, after a brief reference to that of Mr. Hoke Smith, he said:

"I have a record on which I stand, as I have always stood, and I am proud to say that I have not had to change it to meet the vicissitudes of a political campaign." (Laughter and applause.)

The Disfranchisement Fraud.

In discussing disfranchisement, Mr. Howell declared that the proposition to which Hoke Smith and Tom Watson propose to commit the state is that an educated negro is as good as an educated white man, and that an educated negro is better than an uneducated white man.

"That's the proposition to which they propose to commit the state." Mr. Howell declared. "Are you good democrats of Mongomery county willing to commit yourselves to any such proposition as that? The people of my county are not, for they know what that means. I stand ready and willing to submit this question to a primary election by the people of Fulton county, at any time, and if I don't beat him on it by a good majority I'll get out of the race for governor." (Applause.)

Mr. Howell surprised his hearers by calling to their attention a recently published statement from the office of the state school commissioner showing that since the agitation of this disfranchisement proposition was begun the negroes had evidently regarded it almost as a promise to them that they should enjoy the ballot if they would equip themselves with an education, for there has within the school year been an increase of 20 per cent in the attendance of the negro schools throughout the state.

Senator Tillman had stated that practically one-third of the white people of South Carolina were disfranchised as a result of the disfranchisement law adopted by that state. Mr. Howell produced the testimony of Senator Money, of Mississippi, and others to show that Georgia now has the best disfranchisement law of any state in the south, placed in the constitution of the state by General Toombs, the cumulative poll tax feature of which, together with the democratic primary, more effectually does away with the negro in politics than any disfranchisement law ever enacted by any other state.

Georgia Has Complete White Supremacy.

All the testimony, declared Mr. Howell, points clearly to the proof that Georgia now has better and more complete white supremacy than any other state in the south.

Mr. Howell spoke of Mr. Smith's former opposition to disfranchisement and his flop to his present view of it to bring himself into accord with Tom Watson, the leading enemy of the democratic party. There is not a plank in his platform that he has not been on both sides of some three or four times in the last six years, Mr. Howell said, amidst laughter and applause.

Mr. Howell spoke of the Sibley letter and his reply, showing indisputably that he could have had the support of Tom Watson had he chosen to surrender his convictions on the disfranchisement proposition to get it. His recital of the appointments of negroes to clerical positions by Hoke Smith while secretary of the interior, as shown by the records of that department, was listened to with close attention.

"I am willing that any impartial committee be appointed to go to Washington and investigate the records with regard to these matters," Mr. Howell said, "and if they do not find everything I have said about these negro appointments is absolutely true I'll not only pay the expenses of the committee, but I'll get out of the race for governor. I have made this proposition on every stump in Georgia, wherever I have sproken, and not one word has ever been heard from them with regard to taking it up." (Applause.)

Ovation for Mr. Howell.

Mr. Howell discussed the other issues and questions involved in the campaign along the usual lines, and at the conclusion of his address was given an ovation of applause and congratulations.

This afternoon Mr. Howell was driven over to Ailey by some friends, and there he met more of the democratic voters of Montgomery county. There also, as here, those who have heretofore been counted in the neutral column gave him earnest assurances of cooperation and support.

PILES

Can Be Cured and We Can Prove It.

Sample Package Free.— Prove It Yourself.

When we say that we can cure Piles, we mean just exactly what we say—nothing more, nothing less. We say it because we know it and stand ready to prove it to you or to any other person. Just as we have said it and proved it to thousands already.

It is because of these thousands that we have cured that we are able to say this.

We have done our part in calling your attention to this fact, and it is up to you to disprove it. And we offer you the means of doing so, knowing that you can't and that when you try our wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure you will be so well pleased with it that you will go straight to your druggist and get a box of it.

And, more than that, if, at any time in the future, any person tells you as you have told so many yourself, that they are suffering the agonies of the damned from piles, you will not rest until he or she has bought and is using a box and getting the same relief and cure that you got. We have seen it done.

Here, for instance, is a sample of what a sample did and shows very conclusively that we are dealing in cold, hard facts and not empty assertions. A person who gets a sample never fails to buy.

Mr. John Byrne, of 2306 Second avenue, New York city, writing under date of January 17, 1906, says: "I received the sample and used it right away. I got so much relief from it after twenty years' suffering, that I bought a 50-cent box. The almost unbearable pain is almost gone and my fistula has almost disappeared. I had given up all hope of ever being cured. I assure you, gentlemen, I will use every effort to make any of my friends try them, as I can guarantee they are a sure cure."

Pyramid Pile Cure is for sale at every druggist's for 50 cents a box, and it is cheap at ten times the price to any one who needs it.

SMITH DODGING DR. NUNNALLY?

That Is Question Being Asked by Cedartown Citizens.

Hoke Smith Abandons His Original Date at Cedartown, Leaving the Field Clear to Dr. Nunnally—Does Hoke Fear Nunnally?

Cedartown, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—"Is Hoke Smith trying to sidestep a joint debate with Dr. G. A. Nunnally?" That is the question that is being asked, with a good deal of amusement, by a number of observant citizens of Cedartown.

Mr. Smith and Dr. Nunnally were both booked for speeches in the gubernatorial contest here on the 14th instant. People who took some stock in Mr. Smith's professed hunger for joint debates were promising themselves a rare treat in the intellectual clshing between the "people's candidate" and the plain talking divine from Coweta—the friends of the aforesaid "people's candidate" basing this assumption on his alleged anxiety to discuss his record everywhere and under any conditions. In fact, they were so sure that he was going to propose a division of time with Dr. Nunnally that they begun to indulge in loud and long jubilation.

It seems their rejoicing was a trifle premature. It is announced now that Mr. Smith has abandoned his original intention of speaking here on the 14th, and set forward his date to the 12th, thus leaving the field to the candidate from Newnan.

Mr. Smith's friends are not a little perturbed and they are not attempting any large amount of explanation. The supporters of the other candidates are wondering if Dr. Nunnally's terrific and detailed excoriation of Mr. Smith's connection with the Piedmont bar, his inconsistencies on the railroad question and his flopping on disfranchisement has anything to do with that gentleman's sudden surrendering of the platform to his gifted antagonist.

DEKALB HEARS JUDGE RUSSELL

Pays His Respects To Both Hoke Smith and Clark Howell.

Yesterday at the noon hour of court in Decatur Judge R. B. Russell, candidate for governor, addressed the voters of DeKalb county on the issues of the campaign. The superior court room was well filled, and some 300 men heard the speaker and gave him generous applause.

Judge Russell addressed himself to both Hoke Smith and Clark Howell. He sharply criticized the former and referred to him as a wolf in sheep's clothing. This sentiment, which was stressed by the speaker, met with the instant approval of his audience. Continuing, Judge Russell referred to Clark Howell as a wolf and stated that the difference between the candidates from Fulton was that one was parading in a guise not his own while the other was in the open.

Judge Russell will speak again at Sandersville next Saturday.

A democratic mass meeting in DeKalb county for the election of a new executive committee has been called for today at noon, and the indications point to a large attendance of democrats. It is generally believed that Judge John S. Candler will be chosen chairman of the meeting.

Fatal Gasoline Explosion.

Macon, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Mary McCrary, a negro cook, was taken from a Pine street home this morning badly burned and her small child in a dying condition from injuries caused by the explosion of a can of gasoline used in making fire. The explosion saturated the child's clothing with the dangerous liquid and despite her efforts the fire inflicted horrible injury. She was badly burned. Both went to the hospital, where the child is under treatment with no hopes of recovery and she is also being treated.

A Woman's Gratitude

"For more than a year I had been a sufferer, completely broken down. I had not slept but two or three hours any night for weeks. I had such awful misery in my head, and oh, I was so irritable. I could not depend upon my judgement, and my memory was failing. I realized that I was losing my mind, and I thought the grave, or worse, the asylum, would be my doom. My doctor said my case was beyond the reach of medicine. I went to a druggist and told him my condition. He recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine; he was pretty sure it would help me, so I bought a bottle. That night I took a table spoonful, and fell asleep in a few minutes, the first rest I had in weeks, and oh, I will never forget that sweet sleep while I live. I have continued taking it, and sleep like a baby, and gain rapidly."

MRS. VIOLA BARKER,
Orange, Texas.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

In years gone by when the sufferer from eye strain decided to seek relief, through the aid of glasses, he would step into a spectacle store where the obliging clerk, by trying on a long series of lenses, would do the best he could in guessing at what was needed. In our establishment you are in the hands of an experienced optometrist who quickly measures the defects of the eyes, by modern methods, fits you with what you need and does not exhaust your patience guessing about the matter. NEWNAN INDORSES FAVORITE SON

Dr. Nunnally Spoke at His Home Yesterday.

Resolutions Were Adopted by the Assemblage Commending the Distinguished Divine to the Suffrage of the People of the State.

Newnan, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Dr. G. A. Nunnally, Coweta's candidate for governor, spoke to his home people today at the court house, and was given an enthusiastic reception. He was introduced by Major W. W. Thomas, brother of the late General E. L. Thomas, and himself a gallant old confederate, with a war record as brilliant as that of his distinguished kinsman. Dr. Nunnally spoke about one hour, and thirty minutes, and it was one of the strongest political speeches ever heard in Newnan.

He caught the crowd with his opening remarks, and held the close attention of his audience throughout, being frequently interrupted by applause. Pleasing proof of Dr. Nunnally's popularity with his home people was manifested when, at the close of his address, the following resolution, proposed by W. A. Post, was unanimously adopted, viz.:

"Whereas, as it is the sense of this meeting that the governor of Georgia should be a thoroughly qualified, God-fearing man, capable of administering the affairs of the state with wisdom and justice—a man who is free from domination by political cliques or factions of any character—a man who would fill this high office as a true servant of the people, holding it in trust for all the people of every class; and

"Whereas, our distinguished fellow citizen, Dr. G. A. Nunnally, is such a man; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the citizens of Coweta county in mass meeting assembled. That we heartily indorse the candidacy of Dr. Nunnally for the democratic nomination for governor, and present him to the people of Georgia as a man in every way qualified for the office, and as one eminently deserving this high honor."

Dr. Nunnally will speak at Madison on Wednesday.

GANG OF YEGGMEN TO BLOW UP PRISON

impossible, and the report preposterous.

But if these men expected to make the delivery as outlined above, they reckoned without their host. While none of the guards or other officials would talk about the matter and while Warden Moyer was very reticent, it is known that every precaution has been taken to prevent just such action.

The theory was that as the institution is so patrolled, guarded and protected both by officials and every possible appliances known to modern architects of penal institutions, the members of the gang agreed that the only chance to effect an entrance was to get near enough to the building to blow up a portion of the cell block and in the attending confusion, have a sufficient force with which to overcome the officers, get their friends and with plenty of clothing, disguises, etc., collected for the purpose, help them to make a break for liberty by boarding trains or in any and every possible way get as far as possible from Atlanta and once more be among their waiting friends. It was believed that these same desperate members of the gang trusted to the fact that with over 500 convicts suddenly released, and with the officers of the institution either dead or overpowered, enough time would be given to certain of the prisoners to have a good running start of twenty-four or forty-eight hours before the Atlanta and Georgia officials pressed in for emergency service could recapture even one quarter or one-half of the suddenly liberated prisoners.

By Sheer Audacity.

It would seem that those most interested in making the delivery trusted to the enormity of the proposition to make possible the carrying out of plans that would be entirely and absolutely impossible under any other less daring and sensational circumstances.

While Warden Moyer does not make public the arrangement of the many devices for keeping safe the prisoners entrusted by the United States government to his charge, nor the plans and methods by which he patrols the outside, as well as the inside of this great institution, it is generally well known that a more efficient corps of men could not be found in the entire country. When asked if there was any possibility of the gang of desperadoes accomplishing their ends through the subsidizing of any of the guards, the warden stated that every man on duty was a tried an trusted officer, in whom he had the utmost confidence, or he would not be there.

It is known, too, that the arrangements and the discipline of these guards is far more strict than that of military life. The present staff of guards also includes many men who have served in the regular army, and have been under fire and have proved themselves to be cool and collected in the case of emergency. As to being dead shots, marksmanship is one of the chief requisites, and revolver and rifle practice is kept up in the target range, and a certain high standard of proficiency must be attained by every officer.

Guards Must Be Eliminated.

While it would be possible for a man to sneak up several hundred yards from the sentries who patrol a circuit around the entire building every minute of the day and night, it would be impossible for any man to get near enough to the building to manipulate a gun cotton explosive, unless all of the outside guards were done away with first. As there is also at all times an officer of the watch, who can be communicated with through the sentry line, and who could instantly call out a large force of heavily armed and highly trained and brave marksmen and still a much larger force of the guards who sleep in the building, the reported plan to effect this delivery stands out as one of the most remarkable on record.

Still another theory advanced was that the members of the gang hoped to get acquainted with the positions of their friends in the prison by going through the institution on the regular visiting days. As the rules are very strict in regard to visitors, and as any person regarding whom there is the least suspicion is refused admittance, any attempt to secure information in this way would necessitate the taking of long chances. But as the reported plan is one entire scheme of taking the biggest kind of chances, this method may have been resorted to, and the report has it that it was attempted by a woman who claims to be the wife of one of the prisoners.

The Woman in the Case.

It was reported that this woman arrived in Atlanta some time ago, and came for the sole purpose of doing everything in her power to rescue the man she loves. It is believed that she was made acquainted with the plans of the members of the gang, and readily joined in their efforts, and was ready to play any and the most desperate part assigned to her.

Bold, daring and sensational as is the reported plan of these desperate men who are ready to take any chances for the possible liberating of their pals, there are other attempts equally as bold, daring and sensational, which have been made on other institutions, seemingly as impregnable as the present federal prison, which is as yet without any high wall to protect the approaches to the building. It is believed that this fact may have been the occasion of the plans being made to rescue men who are serving long or life terms at this time, on the ground that they would be made absolutely impossible as soon as the big 30-foot wall now in course of construction is completed.

Police Are Notified.

The matter was reported yesterday to the police, and Chief Jennings will endeavor to secure tangible evidence against the prisoners now in the Tower.

In the Dim Future.

(From The Chicago News.)

"Why so blue, Reggy?"

"Why, confound it, I was goose enough to ask Miss Dashing to be my wife. I haven't enough at present to support myself, so I must set the date as far distant as possible."

"Oh, that's all right, old man. Tell her you will marry her the day the Panama canal is finished."

TELLS BY THEIR SLEEP

"I can tell by my little ones' sleep when a cold is coming on" said a mother when speaking of the advance symptoms of colds in children. "They toss about, are restless, their breathing is heavy and there are symptoms of night sweats. The next morning I start with Scott's Emulsion. The chances are that in a day or two they are all over it. Their rest is again peaceful and the breathing normal."

Here's a suggestion for all mothers. Scott's Emulsion always has been almost magical in its action when used as the ounce of prevention. Nothing seems to overcome child weakness quite so effectively and quickly as Scott's Emulsion.

WHOSE SAY-SO IS BEST?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone and exclusively as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their owners' and makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines. Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. Jno. King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr Grover Coe, of New York; Dr. Bartholow and scores of others equally eminent.

The writings of these have been for the various medical journals and for publication in standard medical books for professional reading and instruction, and hence are the more valuable as they relate to Dr. Pierce's medicines, since the writers did not know that they were endorsing and recommending articles that enter into the composition of these medicines and had no personal interest whatever therein. Hence, their great value as endorsements.

A brief synopsis, of a small part only, of these extensive writings, which apply to the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the world-famed remedy for weak stomach, or dyspepsia, torpid or congested liver, biliousness, ulceration of stomach and bowels and kindred ailments—has been compiled for publication in book form. These extracts also treat of the several ingredients entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, "run-down," debilitated, nervous women, who find in it a priceless boon.

Send your name and address by postal card or letter, with request for this little book, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will be mailed free to your address. From it you will learn why "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrh of the nasal passages, even though of years' standing. It is a most potent constitutional remedy for this terribly common and generally unsuccessfully treated malady. The cure will be facilitated if Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy be employed to cleanse out the nasal passages at the same time that the "Discovery" is employed for the constitutional treatment.

The "Discovery" is equally efficient in the cure of catarrh of the stomach and bowels, and in cases of ulceration of these organs. Read what Doctors King, Scudder, Grover Coe, and others say of the curative properties of Golden Seal root and of Stone root in cases of the above diseases. Both these roots are important ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery." From the writings of these same authors you will learn, why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures chronic, or lingering ailments of the throat and bronchia attended with hoarseness, cough, soreness and kindred symptoms. Several of the ingredients in the "Golden Medical Discovery" are highly recommended for their specific, curative effects in laryngitis, or "Speakers' sore throat," as well as in incipient consumption and obstinate, lingering coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated, are apt to end in consumption.

From the same little book you may learn why Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prolapsus, anti-version and retro-version and corrects irregularities, cures painfull periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh, and why inflammation of the ovaries and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women, readily yield to its marvelous curative potency. Bear in mind, it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician, of large experience in the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, who frankly and cheerfully takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for woman's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

That every ingredient entering into Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has the endorsement of the leading medical writers of the age amply attests its harmless character as well as its sterling curative value. Send your address for the little book and read what some of the most eminent medical men of this century say of the curative properties contained in the several ingredients which go to make up Dr. Pierce's leading medicines. No other medicines are backed up by such marvelous, disinterested, professional endorsements. This one fact is worth more and should have more weight in determining whether these non-secret medicines, or some secret compounds without professional endorsement and with only the makers' praise to recommend them, are best and most likely to effect important cures.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

Dr. Pierce's medicines are made from harmless but efficient medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. The Indians knew of the marvelous curative value of some of these roots and imparted that knowledge to some of the friendlier whites, and gradually some of the more progressive physicians came to test and use them, and ever since they have grown in favor by reason of their superior curative virtues and their safe and harmless qualities. The little free book mentioned in the preceding column will tell you all about the properties and uses of these most valuable medicinal roots. Send for it NOW.

Your druggist sells the "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" and also that famous alterative, blood purifier and stomach tonic, the "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." Write to Dr. Pierce about your case. He is an experienced physician and will treat your case as confidential and without charge for correspondence. Address him at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is chief consulting physician.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

Dr. Pierce's 1000-page illustrated book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," is sent free in paper covers on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only. For 31 stamps the cloth-bound volume will be sent. It was formerly sold for $1.50 per copy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SCORE INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

Three Deaths May Result From the Accident.

Train Near High Point, N. C., While Running at Ordinary Speed, Struck Broken Fish Plate and Was Derailed.

Conductor Burns, Captain Might, of Greensboro; E. I. Rudd, of Winston, N. C., and Mail Clerk Frazier received the worst injuries. Later reports today indicate that their death is not unexpected. The train was running at ordinary speed when it struck a broken fishplate, which resulted in the derailing.

CONTEST WON BY LOUISIANA

Mississippi Loses Out in the Boundary Case Before Supreme Court.

Washington, March 5.—The supreme court of the United States today decided the case of Louisiana vs. Mississippi, involving the water boundary line between the two states, in favor of Louisiana. The opinion was handed down by Chief Justice Fuller. As the controversy was between two states, the case originated in the supreme court. The dispute involved the peninsula and adjacent islands.

CENTRAL PLACES BIG ORDER.

Buys 1,000 Freight Cars and Will Buy Thirty Engines.

Savannah, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—The Central of Georgia railway has given a contract to the South Atlantic Car and Manufacturing Company for 1,000 freight cars to be built at the Savannah shops. The same system has recently given an order for 1,000 coal cars to the Pressed Steel Car Company, of Pittsburg.

Major J. F. Hanson, president of the Central railway, today confirmed the story of the contract for the cars being let, and said that negotiations are pending for the purchase of thirty locomotives.

CONTEST BEGUN AGAINST LEGARE

Negro Attempting To Unseat Congressman From South Carolina.

Washington, March 5.—House election committee No. 1 begun hearings today in the Legare-Prioleau election contest for the seat in the house from the first South Carolina district. James H. Stewart, attorney for Aaron P. Prioleau, the negro who is attempting to unseat Representative George S. Legare, opened the case with a view of the charges against Legare's campaign managers. He alleged that the system of voting was illegal; that legal ballots were kept from the ballot boxes, and that the South Carolina constitution of 1895 limiting the right of suffrage was unconstitutional. Stewart denied the allegation of Legare's supporters that Prioleau was not the regular nominee of the republicans and charged that an attempt was made to mob Prioleau because he announced himself as a candidate for congress. He also charged that Prioleau, who was a mail clerk, had to shut himself in a mail car to avoid the mob at Eutawville, S. C., and was falsely charged with robbing the mails and convicted.

W. A. Holman and M. Rutledge Rivers appeared for Legare. Mr. Holman defended the South Carolina constitution, saying it contains an educational qualification for voters, which is enforced against blacks and whites alike. Mr. Rivers denounced as absurd the charge that an attempt was made to mob Prioleau and said it was based merely on hearsay. He reviewed the prosecution of Prioleau for robbing the mails, and said he was convicted by a jury on which two negroes sat.

This conviction, he said, would explain the small vote for Prioleau.

The opinion held that the peninsula and adjacent islands are a part of the territory of Louisiana. In its pleading Louisiana claimed that the disputed territory covers 1,000,000 acres of oyster beds.

The chief justice in his opinion says:

"The record contains much evidence of the exercise by Louisiana of jurisdiction over the territory in dispute, and the general recognition of it by Mississippi as belonging to Louisiana. Apparently Louisiana had exercised complete dominion over it from 1812, with the acquiescence of Mississippi, unless the fact that the latter made a general reference to islands within 6 leagues of her shore in her code of 1880 indicated otherwise. But the evidence fails to satisfy us that she attempted any physical possession or control until after 1900. Our conclusion is that complainant is entitled to the Pistols in Arcadia?

Albany, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—The city and county officers are making diligent efforts to discover the identity of parties who outraged the usual Sabbath quiet of the northern portion of Albany late yesterday afternoon. Just before dark about one hundred pistol shots were heard during a period of about ten minutes. The shooting occurred in the woods of Arcadia, just within the city limits. Several revolvers were in use, judging from the character of the reports. A number of outraged residents of Arcadia who started out to investigate saw several men jump in buggies and drive away at break-neck speed, and descriptions have been furnished the officers. It is thought that the shooting was the work of parties who merely wanted to create a little excitement, as no damage was done.

TICKET OF LEAVE GIVEN M'CURDY

Promised To Come Back When Wanted.

Before Sailing for Europe Former President of Mutual Life Signed Written Agreement Prepared by District Attorney Jerome.

New York, March 5.—It appears from The Herald that Richard A. McCurdy, former president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, before sailing for Paris, Wednesday last, entered into a written agreement with District Attorney Jerome to return to this country at any time his presence may be desired and to return by September 1 in any event.

This is taken to confirm the report that the district attorney is preparing certain life insurance matters for the grand jury. It also appears that Mr. Jerome was shown a certificate from Mr. McCurdy's physicians representing that the former president of the Mutual was in a physical condition commanding absolute rest and removal from the scene of his many business cares.

Delaney Nichol, personal counsel to Mr. McCurdy, says his client entered into a written undertaking to return to New York, and further confirmation is given by other counsel to Mr. McCurdy.

Mr. McCurdy is in no danger of prosecution upon any criminal charge, said Mr. Nichol last night, "but his condition as all the world knows, was desperate. He insisted upon reading the newspapers and was continually harrowed over the reports which concerned him.

"I do not believe that Mr. Jerome intended to present him before the grand jury, but at the same time Mr. McCurdy did agree to return to this country at any time he might be required. At no time had Mr. McCurdy intended to desert his native land.

"Here are all of his interests and here is all of his property."

CROWD FOUGHT TO HEAR TWAIN

Police Reserves Had To Keep Peace at Mark's Lecture.

New York, March 5.—Hundreds of persons struggled in vain yesterday in efforts to enter the Majestic theater to hear S. L. Clemens (Mark Twain). So great was the crowd that had gathered to hear the veteran humorist that for a time it was beyond the control of the police reserves from two precincts. In the jam clothes were torn and several persons were slightly injured.

When the struggle to enter the theater was at its height two patrol wagons laden with the reserves drove up. The police charged into the crowd and three young men and women were forced through the big glass in one of the doors opening into the lobby. All were cut by the broken glass, but none seriously. Mr. Clemens' talk was delivered under the auspices of the West Side Young Men's Christian Association. During his lecture he read a letter from William Dean Howells, in which the novelist said he would be 60 years old today. Mr. Clemens commented humorously on this letter and his own age.

PRINCE MARO APPEARS AT THE GRAND TONIGHT

Prince Maro and his company will be greeted with a capacity house this evening at the Grand as the eighth number on the Atlanta Lecture Association course. This is the first departure the association has ever made from the regular lecture and concert order on their programmes, but the change is proving to be a popular one as far as the door receipts are concerned and it is believed that this will likely be the most popular attraction of the entire course this season.

The first forty minutes of the programme will be spent in bewilderment and humorous situations with Maro as a magician, in a bouquet of mysteries in which nature's laws are set aside. In this most astounding exhibition of digital dexterity Maro stands absolutely without a peer today. He will don the costume of the ancient sorcerers or high priests of India, and give a most realistic exhibition of magic as performed by the famed fakirs of India. His entire company will assist by introducing music of the Orient, produced with genuine East Indian musical instruments, making altogether a most weird and fascinating performance.

The second part of the programme is where Maro illustrates his wonderful versatility, first by introducing various musical instruments, including his saxophone quartet and the goggiepeg, his own invention; the art seance in which he draws and paints large and realistic pictures of the impressionistic school, and shadowgraphy are very pleasing parts of this section.

Miss Christine L. Giles, the noted soprano of Cleveland, will appear on the musical part of the programme for a few selections. Miss Giles has been engaged especially for this occasion so the patrons could have an opportunity of hearing her sweet voice during the tour she is making of the south this year.

Then the programme will be closed with forty more minutes of merriment with the magician Maro in some of his oroginal and marvelous acts, such as "The Fiery Dragon," "A Comedy of Errors," "The Fairy Omelet," "Simple Simon Outdone" and "The Goose That Laid the Golden Egg."

Worth's Primary in July.

Albany, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Worth county's primary will be held on the second Wednesday in July. The democratic executive committee met on Saturday at Sylvester, and that date was selected. The state committee rules will be adhered to.

There are no contests in Worth this year except over the office of representative. Three candidates have thus far offered for this position. Claude Payton, G. G. Ford and J. G. McPhaul. All are prominent citizens, and the race bids fair to grow exciting.

MANY ATLANTANS AND A JAP EXAMINE NEW PALACE CARS

FOUR of the new passenger coaches of the West Point route arrived in Atlanta yesterday on their first run. Arriving from Montgomery, the coaches were sidetracked, and all through the day members of the Atlanta railroad world hurried down to the terminal station to make a thorough and careful inspection of these examples of the very latest equipment in the way of passenger traffic. It was the consensus of opinion, even among the officials of competing lines, that these new coaches were not only the finest in the south, but superior to any now used in the entire country. Not only are the facilities for comfort much the same as those of the Pullman Company, but the same heavy steel bodies and anti-telescoping steel platforms and vestibules are included, and as a result there seems to be little left in the way of suggestions for further improvement even in these modern twentieth century days.

These coaches have just been delivered by C. W. Prosser, representing the St. Louis Car Company, have been thoroughly tested and worked out, and were yesterday instituted in the service of the West Point between Atlanta and Montgomery. While only four have been received, more are being finished in the shops, and will be delivered soon. With these other coaches will be a new dining car, representing the latest luxuries and methods in this particular line of architecture and construction, which has made such wonderful advances during the past few years from the old-time light framework cars to the heavy six-wheel truck and steel bodies, represented in those on view yesterday.

Evidently no expense has been spared in the building of these coaches, which are 72 feet long and luxuriously finished in carefully matched mahogany, imported from Honduras, which gives an artistic harmony, such as marks a new epoch in public comfort for passenger transportation, and for which no excess is charged. The coaches are much larger than the usual day coach, and accommodate seventy-six passengers not only comfortably, but luxuriously. The weight of the cars, with their big six-wheel trucks and cantilever truss, exceeds 110,000 pounds, heavier than some Pullman coaches. A new style of roof, with the latest ventilating system and the use of art glass, adds much to the soft and magnificent color of the southern mahogany, and the color scheme is of that particular type which means much in resting the eyes of the passengers, while the diamond-shaped emblem of the West Point route is introduced by means of this art glass in a unique, clever and pleasing manner.

In the coaches are three large clusters of electric lamps that light up the entire car, while at each seat are individual lamps, which make of newspaper or book reading a pleasure rather than a tax on the eyesight. This is much the same as that installed in the latest Pullman service, and includes electric fans, with the clusters which insure perfect comfort in the hottest days of summer. This is the Newbold system of electric light and fan ventilation, and once charged carries sufficient storage batteries to keep the lights and fans running even if the coaches stand on sidetracks for forty-eight hours. In case of any accident, the Pintsch gas lights are included in the equipment as auxiliary lights.

All of the windows are of heavy French plate, which does not distort the beautiful scenery of the south into a criss-cross conglomeration, entirely destroying the pleasure of tourists.

All of the entrances are much the same as those of the latest Pullmans, the smoking compartments being finished in panels of mahogany. The toilet accommodations include not only the latest sanitary appliances, but separate lavatories that settles happily and completely the dust problem, which is reduced to a minimum by the vestibules and new system of ventilation. Mohai rplush settees, linoleum and aisle carpets add to the general comfort and luxurious appearance. Incidentally, while so much is done in the way of providing every accessory for the passengers, the equipment represents the latest science in furnishing every known preventive from injury or damage by accident in case of accident, and gives to the traveler an insurance against loss under any and every circumstance or condition.

Combination coaches for colored travel are included, which offer with their heavy brass work trimmings the same luxury as that enjoyed by white passengers, and puts a stop to the contentions of certain northerners that this class of travel is discriminated against. This means the same equipment, and a special smoking compartment for the colored, which has been asked for this long time. Entirely separate and distinct from the colored section of the coach is the smoker for white gentlemen, where the goddess Nicotine may be wooed under luxurious furnishings. Many railroad men were escorted through the coaches by J. P. Billups, general passenger agent of the West Point, and all of these were enthusiastic in their praise. Among the visitors was Yoshio Kinoshita, of the Imperial Government railway, of Japan. This gentleman is here from Tokio for the purpose of inspecting American methods and equipment, and stated that for Oriental splendor the new coaches were in a class far beyond even the dreams of the cherry blossom kingdom.

INJUNCTION FUTILE TO STOP THE INTERMENT OF A WOMAN

JUST a few minutes too late, Morris Macks, lawyer, reached Oakland cemetery yesterday morning with a restraining order granted by Judge Pendleton, preventing the interment of Mrs. Mary Perkinson, the old lady who recently died at her residence, 55 West Mitchell street.

The funeral services had just been completed and the interment had taken place. Of course the order restraining sexton, undertaker and Ed Baughan from burying the body was useless, now that the interment had occurred, so the lawyers in the case secured from Judge Pendleton permission to withdraw the same, in order to permit of other legal steps in the case.

The failure to properly serve the papers resulted from the short length of time given to the firm of Hughes & Macks to prepare the petition and secure an order on it from the judge.

Yesterday morning about 6:30 o'clock they were notified in regard to the matter. The petition for an injunction stated that Mrs. A. V. South, the owner of the lot, had sold to Ed Baughan the privilege of burying three persons on it for the sum of $15, it being supposed that these three persons were to be his child, his wife and himself.

Mrs. Perkinson, who died recently, was the grandmother of Mrs. Baughan, and it was decided to inter her on this lot. Mrs. South objected and the petition for a restraining order was the result.

STRONG AS STEEL.

The Kind of Nerves That Can Do Things.

A young athlete writes concerning the method by which he acquired steady nerves, and also of some good missionary work he has done:

"About a year ago," he says, "my nerves began to grow unsteady and I found myself troubled with sleeplessness. I set an enquiry on foot, and became convinced that the coffee I drank was the cause of the trouble and determined to quit it right there.

"So I got a package of Postum Food Coffee and Mother and I prepared it. We did not boil it long enough the first time and were not much impressed by it. The second time, however, we followed the directions carefully and were more than pleased with the result.

"I can sleep like a log now, since I am using Postum, my nerves are as strong as steel, and my muscles, which used to tire easily, are hard and enduring as iron. Heavy athletics no longer give me pain in the side and chest as formerly.

"I have brought our whole family to use it, and it has done every one of them good. My father has found his asthma almost entirely relieved since he gave up coffee and began to drink Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A Test of Lunacy.

Some visitors were being shown over a pauper lunatic asylum. They inquired of their conductor what method was employed to discover when the inmates were sufficiently recovered to leave. "We have a big trough of water," said the conductor, "and we turns on the tap. We leaves it running and tells 'em to bale out the water with pails until they've emptied the troughs." "How does that prove them?" asked one of the visitors. "Well," said the conductor, "them as ain't idiots turns off the tap."—Tattler.

PLANS SECURED FOR NEW SCHOOL

Atlanta Firm Designs Handsome Edifice for Columbus.

Columbus, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—An Atlanta firm of architects, J. W. Golucke & Co., has drawn the plans for Columbus' secondary industrial school. Several sets of plans were suggested by various architects, but those designed by the Atlanta firm were favored by the committee from the school board having the matter in charge.

The secondary industrial school will be a handsome $50,000 building. It will be located in the city's northern suburbs on land donated by G. Gunby Jordan and R. Curtis Jordan. The former is president of the board of trustees of the Columbus public schools. The local school system has the reputation of being the foremost in the south in stressing industrial education. A primary industrial school was incorporated as a feature of the Columbus educational system several years ago.

Columbus, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—The mystery in regard to the finding of a "bed" of oysters near Seale, Ala., a day or two ago has been solved. Several years ago F. Fruit Hurt but Little.

Columbus, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—The opinion of the majority of fruit growers in this section is that the cold snap has damaged the fruit crop but little, if any. At Pine Mountain, on the Southern railway, where there is one orchard of 30,000 trees, that seems to be the prevailing opinion.

Map as Weapon Against Tiger.

(From The Straits Budget.)

While a well-known local surveyor, who had been kept out late at work on Saturday night, was driving in a rickshaw along Tampenis road, his rickshaw coolie suddenly dropped the shafts and ran for his life into the edge of the jungle.

On peering into the darkness (the vehicle was not carrying a light) the gentleman saw a large creature standing in the middle of the road. He got out of the rickshaw and went toward the beast, thinking it some large dog that had frightened the coolie. When within six or seven yards away he perceived that the obstructor of the path was a large tiger.

He had no weapon except a large district survey map rolled up. He saw the futility of attempting to disable the tiger with the rolled map, but a thought struck him that he might manage to frighten it by means of his roll. Suddenly he unrolled it with a quick flip spreading it to its full area of four or five feet square. With a single bound the tiger cleared off into the jungle.

The next thing was to find the coolie, who eventually was discovered in a state of collapse in the ditch. He was quite unable to pull his fare back, and it was not until three or four miles had been traversed that he recovered sufficiently to drive the European home.

"GO RIGHT THRO' LIKE A BULLET"

Greene - Gaynor Defense Will Be Very Brief.

Argument Over the Admissibility of the Testimony of Westcott and Others, Deceased, Took Up Al lthe Court's Time Yesterday.

Savannah, Ga., March 5.—Argument over the admissibility of the testimony of R. F. Westcott and others deceased taken before Commissioner John W. Shields in the removal proceedings in New York consumed most of the time in the trial of Greene and Gaynor in the United States court today.

The testimony is very important and is relied upon to a large extent by the government and its admissibility is a question of the first importance. Judge Speer announced he would take the matter under consideration and render his decision tomorrow.

The government, in closing its case, will finish in a very few days the introduction of its direct testimony. P. W. Meldrim, of counsel for the defense, said today that he did not expect to be over a week in presenting the evidence for the defense.

"I expect to go right through like a bullet unless I am stopped in the cross-examination by the district attorney," he said.

Corroborates Witnesses.

C. A. Parsons, of New York, the stenographer who took the testimony in the Greene and Gaynor hearing before Commissioner Shields, was a witness today in their trial. He testified to the correctness of the evidence of W. H. Venable, R. F. Westcott, Thomas J. Agnew and Charles M. Vandeventer, all since deceased. The attending exhibits, as admitted by Commissioner Shields, were then tendered in evidence. Objection was offered by Colonel Meldrim for the defense and a long argument ensued. Counsel contended that the evidence generally was inadmissible and that there were many special objections of legal nature. Most of the testimony, he said, related to matters transpiring subsequent to the alleged conspiracy.

"When do you claim the conspiracy ended?" asked Mr. Erwin.

"We do not admit there was any conspiracy," replied Colonel Meldrim. This testimony has been regarded by the government as highly important to the prosecution and nearly all counsel engaged for both sides participated in the argument.

WILL EXTEND THIS RAILROAD

Dublin and Southwestern Will Be Carried Farther South.

Dublin, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—It is authoritatively stated that the Dublin and Southwestern road will shortly be extended to Cordele or Abbeville, from Eastman.

It is also stated that the road may be extended north from Dublin to Milledgeville.

On Saturday last General Manager and Vice President James T. Wright and Civil Engineer Curd, of the Macon, Dublin and Savannah road, took a trip over the Dublin and Southwestern with President E. P. Rentz. It is stated that the officials made this trip for the purpose of making an estimate of the cost of reducing the grades on the road to a 1 per cent basis. As soon as this estimate has been finished, the work of leveling the road will begin. The extension will be begun at the same time. It has not yet been determined whether the southwestern terminus will be Cordele or Abbeville, but one or the other places will be the objective point. The extension to Milledgeville has not been as fully decided upon as the extension to the southwest, but President Rentz has Milledgeville in mind, and may soon take under advisement building a line to that city.

It is said that General Manager Wright, of the Macon, Dublin and Savannah road, has become interested to the extent that he has agreed to assist in financing the road, and will leave shortly for New York to endeavor to get some friends interested in the project.

At the present time there are no bonds outstanding against the Dublin and Southwestern road. It was built by local capital, E. P. Rentz, of Dublin, and Messrs. Simpson and Harper, of Atlanta, furnishing most of the money. A number of people in Eastman are also interested in the road, and others in Dublin have stock in it. It has proved to be one of the best pieces of railroad property in this state, paying a handsome profit each month. The Dublin business alone amounts to from $6,000 to $10,000 per month, and the Eastman business is a great deal more than this.

The business furnished by Eastman and Dublin is enough to pay all of the expenses of operating the road, leaving the business furnished by the local stations clear profit. The road runs a double daily passenger schedule from Dublin to Eastman, and operates several freight trains. The road is now only 31 miles in length.

It is believed that within a few weeks work will be commenced on the extension, and that a crew will be put to work cutting down the grades and making the line a first-class one in every respect.

MAKER Friedman ST. LOUIS

THE MARK OF MERIT

COMBINED FACTORY CAPACITY OVER 15,000 PAIRS DAILY

MIKADO'S REPRESENTATIVE INSPECTS LOCAL OFFICES

YOSHIO KINOSHITA, representing the imperial government railways of Japan, arrived in Atlanta yesterday. Mr. Kinoshita has been in this country several months for the purpose of looking into the methods and equipment of American railroads. He has examined into these matters in the railroads of the west, north and east and after a trip through this section he will go to London and the continent on the same mission before returning to his home in Tokio.

Mr. Kinoshita first called on Brooks Morgan, assistant general passenger agent of the Southern railway, and on General Freight Agent Browder and later met many of the officials in the Atlanta railway world.

It is in regard to passenger traffic that Mr. Kinoshita is particularly interested, this being the department in which he is engaged in Japan. The impression which he made on every side was a decidedly happy one and on each occasion and at every opportunity he proved his intimate acquaintance with the latest methods employed in passenger traffic. In looking around through the offices and the new terminal station, he asked questions in regard to detail which made a very decided impression on all those with whom he came in contact. He will remain in Atlanta a day or two.

When asked regarding the present difficulty and the American boycott in China, Mr. Kinoshita said that he had been away from the Far East upwards of a year and the conditions may have changed, but he believed that most of the threats of war belonged to the reports in the newspapers. "It seems to me unfortunate that there should be any trouble just at this time. China is and always has been a great mystery, but she is awakening now and this awakening must mean much to the whole world, and most of all to this southern portion of the United States. There are millions of people in the interior of China and all of the Chinese want cotton goods. There is no mistaking this fact, nor that this great cotton belt controls the world's supply. For this reason, I do not believe the boycott will continue for any great length of time."

When asked whether he thought Japan had anything to do with making the present trouble in China, he was emphatic in his denial.

"While we have a royal treaty with England, we have quite a different sentiment for the United States, different from that of any other country. You see, it was the United States that made modern Japan possible. We can never forget that certainty. Then, too, the American people proved their sympathy for us in this last war. Japan knows her friends and does not forget. I know that both the government and all our people have only the most friendly feeling towards this country and will prove it whenever the occasion presents itself."

Mr. Kinoshita interested many Atlanta railroad men with his account of the transportation of Japanese soldiers during the recent war, in which transportation he was evidently prominent, although he was modest and reticent when speaking of himself. He said that his kindly and generous reception at the hands of American railroad men had made him a warm friend and ardent admirer of this country for all time to come.

O. C. Glayley, vice president of the Steel Car Company and brother of James Glayley, vice president of the United States Steel Company, was in Atlanta yesterday. This was Mr. Glayley's first visit to Atlanta and he had many very pleasant comments to make. While steel cars are rather a recent proposition, he found them on all sides during his visit about the city. He is on his way to Anniston, where his company have southern shops.

Other visitors to Atlanta's cinder colony yesterday included Mayor C. S. McCullough, of Darlington, S. C., and Chief of Fire Department T. F. James. Both gentlemen are prominent in the Palmetto State and have been in Atlanta looking over Chief Joyner's department.

Louis Hill, who has so successfully managed many excursions in the south, looks for an exceptionally good season this year.

Trains from the north have been bringing down many tourists for the spending of Lent in the south, evidently having decided to give up the cold and disease bearing winds as their Lenten obligation.

MACON WORKING FOR CONVENTION

Central City Able To Care for Delegates.

Business Men and Others Have Proved Equal to the Task of Caring for Several Conventions Which Were Held There Recently.

Constitution Bureau, 467 Second Street, Macon, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Among the various answers from members of the state democratic committee to requests from the Macon chamber of commerce that they use their influence to bring the next democratic convention here was a letter today asking of Secretary Anderson if Macon can take care of the convention. In answer to this query lengthy statements have been made showing that Macon has during the past three years made preparations to take special care of every convention that can be mustered in the state.

Besides opening up a convention hall that is the pride of the entire state, the chamber of commerce has taken unusual care of the hotel accommodations which are necessary for these conventions and during the past year the Georgia Baptist convention, the state reunions of veterans and a dozen other conventions of similar character have been held with absolute satisfaction.

In preparing to meet the needs of the visitors an information bureau established by the chamber of commerce solely for the accommodation of everybody has been the means of providing homes in every instance, and business men have given a great deal of time to arrangements of this character are announcing now that they will have a list of all the hotels, boarding houses and private homes open to the inspection of those coming as delegates and this list will be where they can choose from it places as comfortable and commodious as could be desired anywhere in the state.

Macon is claiming the convention because this point will be neutral in the contest for the governorship. The general expression of the democratic committee and the candidates for governor is that Macon will be the most suitable place and the business men who will have charge of the duty of providing hotel accommodation and homes for the visitors assert that they are ready to guarantee not only comfort and plenty of room, but a most pleasant visit here with opportunity to see all Macon has in the way of industries and amusements.

Reddick Bound Over.

Macon, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Ed Reddick, the engineer who fired on Charles Baker in a tenement house on Ocmulgee street yesterday afternoon, was bound over to superior court this morning by Recorder Nottingham under bond of $400 and was fined $30. The charge is assault with intent to murder.

Fight for Children Renewed.

Macon, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Annie Moore, who several weeks ago made a hard fight for the possession of her three children before Ordinary C. M. Wiley, has renewed the contest, and has appealed by certiorari to the superior court. A boy 5 years of age and two girls aged 7 and 9 are now in the Methodist Orphans' home here under charge of Superintendent Dozier, under an order from the ordinary of Burke county. An effort was made to show that the mother had reformed, and was in position to take the proper care of the children, but Ordinary Wiley was not satisfied with the claims, and did not grant her request. The matter will go before Judge Felton.

Runaway Spoiled Burglars' Plans

(St. Joseph Correspondence Kansas City Journal.)

Efforts were made to loot the First National bank of Savannah last night by three men who engaged a livery team and conveyance here. The robbers had with them a complete outfit of burglars' tools, nitro-glcerine and firearms.

On the way to Savannah, 14 miles from this city, the team they were driving became frightened and ran away. The robbers were pitched out, the conveyance destroyed and the burglars' tools, explosives and clothing were scattered along the road for a distance of a mile or more.

The few hours of their stay in Albany will be crammed full of "something doing," a short trip on the river, a visit to Blue Springs and another to the famous Coffey well, a drive over the city and breakfast at the New Albany being included. The party goes from Albany to Columbus by special train in the afternoon.

THINK THIS DOG WAS MAD.

Barnesville Boy Was Bitten by Supposedly Dangerous Animal.

Barnesville, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—Emmett Gentry, the 10-year-old son of S. W. Gentry, was bitten by a dog Saturday morning which it is now thought had hydrophobia. The dog, a small pug, was passing down Brown avenue, with a string around his neck, and the boy attempted to catch him. He turned on him and bit the boy on the left hand and leg, and afterwards attacked some dogs on the streets. He was captured and imprisoned. He died Saturday night, and the symptoms manifested resembled hydrophobia. The parents of the boy became frightened and consulted physicians. The body of the dog was carried to Atlanta Monday afternoon to be examined, and if found to have rabies the boy will be carried Tuesday morning to the Pasteur institute for treatment.

The boy is resting well, and has not yet suffered anything unusual from the bites.

MEMBERS HEAR JUDGE LINDSAY

Council Holds Only Brief Session in Respect to Major Mims.

The adoption of a resolution congratulating Major W. F. Slaton, superintendent of the Atlanta public school system, upon reaching his seventy-fifth birthday, constituted the only action of the general council yesterday afternoon other than the resolution concerning the death of Major Livingston Mims and the motion to adjourn until Wednesday as a mark of respect.

Council adjourned as soon as it had been notified of the death of Major Mims and transacted no other business except that which related to his demise and his funeral.

The message of Mayor Woodward and the resolution of Councilman Martin concerning the death of Major Mims were then adopted by a rising vote. Judge Ben Lindsay, of Denver, was present for the purpose of addressing council upon the probation system for juvenile criminals. As he could not possibly remain over until Wednesday, when council will meet again, the body adjourned with the announcement that the members would remain after adjournment to hear him.

Judge Lindsay made only a brief talk, in which he urged council to give its support to the reformation of young criminals. He dwelt to a considerable extent upon the fact that experience has proved it is not only easier, but much cheaper to reform than to punish.

The probation system in Colorado, he said, although it had been in operation only six years, had already saved the state several hundred thousand dollars and the results had been better than formerly.

Immediately after the session of council the finance committee, of which Councilman Patterson is chairman, met and approved the resolution of Councilman Terrell which provides for an appropriation of $200 for the printing of a booklet concerning the three battle fields of Atlanta, Peachtree ereek, Atlanta and Ezra church. The booklet is to show reasons why the national government should create a system of military parks connected by driveways to commemorate these three battles.

CHARGES FRAUD TO SISTERS.

Palmer Pease Has Brought Action in Superior Court for Fifth Interest in Property.

Palmer Pease has filed a petition for the sale and division of a lot on Markham street, house and lot on Markham street, which, he alleges, was bought and paid for by his mother, Patience Pease, deceased.

He states that his mother bought the property from Viola Shewmate in 1890, but during her lifetime failed to secure a deed to it, but that through fraud and false representation, his two sisters, Louisa and Ella, did obtain this deed, and disposed of the property, which has since passed through various hands, belonging at present to parties unknown to plaintiff. The renting agent named in the petition is M. L. Thrower, and the lessees are Delia Scroggins and Mary Akers. Mr. Pease declares that Mr. Thrower has absolutely refused to inform him who is the real owner.

Mr. Pease estimates the value of the property as $2,000, saying that it would be worth twice as much if the proper repairs were made.

He petitions for the sale of the property, in order that he may secure his one-fifth interest. Judge Pendleton set the case for a hearing March 17. The petition was filed by Sims & Hewlett and by P. F. Smith.

Selecting Confederate Commissioner.

Washington, March 5.—Secretary Taft has under consideration the selection of a commissioner to visit northern cemeteries and identify and care for the graves of confederate soldiers. The choice appears to be between ex-Representative Shelley, of Alabama; William P. Wood, of North Carolina, and Dr. Lewis, of Virginia.

NEW GRAND JURY BEGINS ITS WORK

Judge Pendleton Calls Attention to Gambling.

M. T. LaHatte Is Named Foreman of New Body—Forty True Bills Returned at First Meeting of That Body Yesterday.

The grand jury for the March term was organized yesterday morning, M. T. LaHatte being elected foreman, and was charged by Judge Pendleton.

The judge called special attention to the enforcement of the laws against gaming, explaining that it was against the law for any man to conduct a place where bets of any kind could be made.

He called attention to the liquor laws of the state, stressing the importance of the features forbidding selling to minors and within a 3-mile limit of any church.

The grand jury is composed of the following members: M. T. LaHatte, foreman, C. N. Peek, A. P. Morgan, F. P. Kern, W. O. Foote, William A. Speer, W. D. Brady, A. B. Steele, John T. Hall, Jr., John J. Lynch, Peter F. Clarke, secretary, L. L. McClesky, B. Davidson, E. H. Thornton, E. A. Hudson, C. F. Malone, R. M. Walker, Ira M. Smith, T. J. Avery, J. R. McKeldin, A. W. Force, Charles C. Mayson, W. W. Stovall.

This body returned forty true bills and five no bills yesterday. It will meet again this morning at 10 o'clock.

Jack Prince Is Sued.

The suit for $15,000 damages against Jack Prince, filed by Mrs. Grace Mallory, for the death of her husband, who was killed as the result of injuries received while riding on the bicycle track at Piedmont park in an amateur race in 1902, started yesterday.

The original suit named as defendants the Southern Interstate Fair Association, Jack Prince, Gus Castle and Bobby Walthour. By an action of the lawyers for the plaintiff the Southern Interstate Fair Association was relieved of all responsibility. The suits against Gus Castle and Bobby Walthour were non-suited, thus leaving Jack Prince as the only defendant in the case.

Divorce Suit Is Filed.

Mrs. Minnie Moore filed suit for divorce yesterday afternoon against her husband, Egbert Moore, whom she states lives in Currie, N. C. She says that she was married October 25, 1888, and that her husband deserted her February 24, 1900 after cruelty treating her and being in a state of intoxication for several months before this desertion. She asks for the custody of her children and a total divorce.

Asks Custody of Her Child.

The habeas corpus proceedings, by which Mrs. Florence Kennedy hopes to secure possession of her 2-year-old child, Ruby, started before Judge Reid, in the city court, yesterday afternoon.

Several weeks ago the disposition of the little girl was brought up before Recorder Broyles, who decided that the mother was not a proper custodian for the child, and awarded it to the home for the Friendless.

The little girl was temporarily placed with the family of W. T. Mera by the Home for the Friendless. Habeas corpus proceedings brought the matter before Judge Reid.

Many Charters Granted.

There were a number of charters granted yesterday by Judge Pendleton.

He acted favorably on the petition of Willis A. Ragan, Jr., T. W. Hunt and E. T. Williams for a charter for the Automatic Lamp Company, with a capital stock of $5,000, the privilege being given to increase the same to $100,000, if desired.

The Couper Gold Separator Company was allowed to amend its charter by reducing the capital stock from $25,000 to $2,500. The limit of capitalization will be $500,000.

A charter was allowed to the Colored Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, the petitioners being L. D. Laird, John Johnson, Shep Clay Brooks, B. Young and J. T. Upton.

The American Box File Manufacturing Company was granted a charter, the incorporators being Herman Thaden, O. M. Bergstrom, George S. Lowman and Victor Smith. The capital stock will be $25,000, with the privilege of increasing to $500,000.

The application of Mrs. Sarah Emma Wilson, for a dower in the estate of her late husband, W. A. Wilson, has been acted upon, and a division of the property made for this purpose.

CROWDS HEAR DR. DAWSON.

Second Day of Series of Meetings Were Crowned with Success.

The second day of the series of meetings being conducted by Dr. W. J. Dawson witnessed large crowds flocking to hear this eminent divine. At the afternoon service, which was held at 3:30 o'clock, and at which time Dr. Dawson preached on "Prayer," there was a good crowd, largely made up of Christians who were seeking to deepen their knowledge of the Bible.

At night the house was packed, and Dr. Dawson gave a strong evangelistic discourse. A number of persons professed conversion at the close of the meeting.

There will be two meetings today held by Dr. Dawson. The first will be at 3:30 o'clock and the other at night. The opportunity of hearing Dr. Dawson being so short, the capacity of Trinity church is being taxed to its utmost to accommodate those who are desirous of hearing him while he is in America.

His address last night was characteristic, being free from an emotional display, but full of dramatic power, which at times stirred to its utmost the audience which had gathered to hear him.

CIVIL SERVICE PUT IN FORCE

until the deed had been done, as he was in Decatur in the morning.

At 11 o'clock Chairman Nunnally called the meeting to order, and after it had been announced that the meeting was for the purpose of putting the force under civil service, Mayor Woodward introduced the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Whereas, the board of police commissioners of the city of Atlanta, by authority vested in it by the legislature of Georgia, having compiled and passed civil service rules and regulations, the same having been transmitted to the mayor and general council, amended and passed unanimously by the said council and approved by his honor the mayor; therefore, be it

"Resolved. That this board does, at this time, hereby proclaim that civil service is now in existence in the police department of Atlanta, and that all persons who are elected or appointed hereafter shall be so elected or appointed under said civil service rules.

"This, at a special called meeting of the board held in the commissioners' room, this, the 5th day of March, 1906, all members of the board having been legally and officially notified to be present."

Names Read Out.

Clerk Patterson read the list of the men who had resigned. It included the policemen with the exception of about twenty patrolmen and twenty-five supes. The patrolmen who would not resign were as follows:

W. T. Manly, J. L. Beavers, W. H. Bone, J. W. Hollingsworth, J. A. Hollis, T. W. Ivy, Z. E. Rowan, E. L. Arthur, D. F. Cook, E. J. Jett, W. M. Mewborn, W. P. Reed, J. F. White, H. H. Bedford, P. Campbell, E. P. Connally, George Cornett, E. A. Coker, A. J. Holcombe, T. E. Lockhart, F. M. Simpson, J. B. Wilson, Ed Cason and George Garner.

To this list is added the twenty-five supes who did not resign and who Judge Pendleton says are as much under a contract with the city as the regular patrolmen.

The board decided to send for all the men who had resigned and swear them in again. The hour for this act was set at 2:30 o'clock.

At 1:30 o'clock Chairman Nunnally went to the fire department headquarters and got Chief Joyner to sound the riot call, which was ten taps repeated four times.

Mr. Nunnally's "Test."

Chief Joyner says that Chairman Nunnally told them this was done only as a test. Chairman Nunnally says that the board had two reasons for having the riot alarm rung, one for a test and the other to get the men together so they could be sworn in. He says he did not intend to mislead Chief Joyner.

At 2:30 o'clock the barracks was crowded with policemen. They were marshaled into the chief's office and there in squads of twenty or more they were sworn in by the chairman. The old oath in the rule book was used with the following added by the chairman:

"And I take this oath under civil service rules."

Commissioner Johnson was present at the swearing in and he looked jolly.

When asked about the matter, Mr. Johnson replied:

"All this is perfectly legal. It is all right. I don't think the city attorney has decided that we have acted illegally. We've got civil service and that is what this force has been wanting."

Chairman Nunnally said that the reason the board was called together yesterday morning was to give Fox and Johnson a chance to help institute a measure for which they have long fought. He thought the board had acted legally.

So did Dr. Fox, so did Mr. Venable and so did Mayor Woodward and Councilman Oldknow.

Mr. Terry said he did not think the action had been legal. He appeared to regard the way the six members had acted a good joke.

Mr. Brandon said he did not desire to criticise what the six members had done. "The legal adviser of the city," he said, "has given it as his opinion that the board could not adopt civil service if as many as twelve men refused to resign and that settles it so far as the legality is concerned."

Captain English and Mr. Woodside, the two new commissioners, had very little to say about the action of the board. The only statement they made was that if the board had acted legally it was all right; if not, then they would have more to say on the subject a little later on.

City Attorney's Opinion.

Mr. Brandon exhibited the following letter which he received from the city attorney:

"Dear Sir: Replying to your favor of even date with reference to the charter amendment providing a plan for civil service in the department of police I beg to answer as follows:

"Under this amendment if the chief, officers and men resign prior to the termination of their term of office the plan known as civil service may be instituted in that department. I understand this to mean that the force must resign their office in order for this plan to be inaugurated.

"However, I am of the opinion that if all resign except a number too small to render the plan ineffective, the board could institute the same.

"Under this view my opinion was, as expressed to you and still is, that if only one or two men resign, the board would not be authorized to institute civil service with reference to the one or two who did resign. In other words, the act provides for placing the force under the rules of civil service and not one or two members of the force.

"Again, while I could not name as matter of law what number declining to resign would be so small as to admit of the institution of civil service, yet, in my opinion, one or two or even five would not be sufficient to prevent a fair enforcement of said amendment. If a substantial number, such as twelve, should not resign, I do not see how civil service could be made effective in the department. In other words, the amendment provides for the institution of the civil service plan in the department of police, and if a substantial number of the force declines to resign, the plan could not be effective, nor would the condition exist contemplated by the act or any reasonable interpretation thereof, under which this plan might be instituted.

"I have endeavored to give a fair and reasonable interpretation of the act, and the above embodies my views thereof. Yours very truly,

"JAMES L. MAYSON,
"City Attorney."

When told of the action of the six members of the police board yesterday, the city attorney said that he had already given his opinion about such action, and that he had had no reason to change his views.

What the Situation Is.

The situation is this: Atlanta has a police force composed of men who are under civil service and men who are not under civil service. The men who are not under civil service will be allowed to go on serving out their terms as if "nothing had happened," and at the end of that time they will be eligible for reelection without a civil service examination.

The city attorney is against the whole business legally. It is believed a majority of the council is against it. The mayor is for it. If a majority of the council declares the action of the board null and void, the mayor will veto it. Then the council must come back with enough votes to override the mayor's veto. If it fails, the action of the board stands, and the police force will have civil service, and the force remains as it is.

It is presumed that Commissioners Brandon and Terry will take a hand in the fight, and that they will both oppose the action of the board, as they were absent, and believe such action illegal.

It was supposed the council would have taken some action about the matter yesterday, if it had not adjourned because of the death of ex-Mayor Mims.

It is a great political fight, about one of the greatest the city has ever witnessed, and it will occupy the close attention of the city officials until it is finally settledone way or the other.

Some Police Board History.

Now for that bit of police board history. It makes a timely story at this crisis in police affairs.

A few evenings ago Commissioner Johnson said to a reporter of The Constitution:

"You fellows did not catch on last year when we were electing a new police force. You kept saying that there was no caucusing, when we did caucus. Woodward, Fox, Oldknow, Nunnally and I, five of us, and a majority of the board, held several caucuses. Every time we voted for chief it stood: For Moon, Fox, Woodward and Oldknow; for Joiner, Nunnally; for Jennings, Johnson. Finally I said that I would go over to Ball if the others did not vote for Jennings. Then they voted for Jennings, and the rest was easy sailing."

It has been told in this same connection that the slate was cracked on one corner. Officer Lamar Poole was selected for detective sergeant, but Commissioner Venable had so much to say about how Newport Lanford had been held up to him as the best man for the place, that the vote split and Lanford was elected.

JANES' PUPILS TO MEET.

Former Students in Celebrated School Will Hold Reunion Thursday.

Former pupils now living in Atlanta of Professor William M. Janes, one of the most successful educators of the south who was at the head of the leading school in this section during the latter sixties and the early seventies, before public schools came into existence, are now working to bring about a reunion of all Atlantans who were enrolled with Professor Janes.

Among the leading and prominent business men of the city today there are many who during that period were prepared for the work of life successfully by the old schoolmaster, who is yet among the living and whose heart yet goes out to the boys over whom he once wielded the rod. Several days ago two or three of these old students found themselves in a group, the result being a meeting one night last week at the home of James L. Logan, Pine and West Peachtree streets. John Aldredge, Archie Forsyth, Dr. Robert Holliday, George Hope, William Frank Crusselle, Walter Davis and Dr. John Z. Lawshe were present and during the evening a roll call of that old school was brought from the dusty memories of those present. Elijah Brown, Victor Moore, John Holliday, Spencer Marsh, John Robinson, Charley Keith, Billy Hubbard, Billy Jones and others were enumerated and about each some juvenile recollection was brought out. Before separating it was decided to have a meeting of all the Atlantans who attended that school on Thursday night of this week at the office of George Hope in the Prudential building and invitations have been sent to every one whose names could be recalled.

"Just say to any boy who went to that school," remarked Mr. Crusselle last night, "that his face would be a pleasant presentation to his old schoolmates Thursday night."

Barber as a special committee of experts to examine all books of the various county officers, and make their report to the grand jury next week. Three leading citizens—Hon. R. W. Everett, J. E. Houseal and Buell Stark—were elected as members of the county board of education.

Some private owners of oil lands in Indian Territory have just sold their holdings, it is alleged, for $40,000,000, "to persons whose names are not known." This is the kind of a blind trail that generally leads to the cave of the Standard Oil Company.

John Ryan, an old soldier, of Chapman, Kan., choked to death while eating breakfast food for supper. This is a terrible warning never to eat breakfast food for supper, and perhaps the lack of moisture in the sawdust had something to do with it. It is always safest to sprinkle the sawdust.

Professor Yamishita, the Jap who has been teaching the cadets at Annapolis the jiu-jitsu, will be dismissed and the peculiar form of the manly art he has been teaching will be banished from the naval academy. There really is no reason why hazing should be reduced to such a devilish fine art as jiu-jitsu.

The Scranton (Pa.) Times says: "After several days of rioting, negro hunting, burning houses and acting savages, the disorderly element—white American citizens—at Springfield, Ohio, have been brought under control by eight companies of militia. This is not Russia, nor the south. It's plain negro baiting, in 'civilized' Ohio, one of the northern states. Dwelling as we do in a house of glass, it is unbecoming and injudicious to throw stones at Russia or the south."

Major Livingston Mims.

A man of infinite loveableness, tactful but direct; kind but inflexible where duty and honor were involved; an unusual combination of dreamer and incisive man of affairs; a wit that was never touched with venom, a smile that won the hearts of men and of little children—such were the qualities that graced the personality of Livingston Mims. They explain the hold that he had on the respect and affection of all classes of people in Atlanta; and they tell in simple eloquence the reason for the universal grief over his passing.

In his characteristics were expressed the best and the brighest qualities of that era which ended with the last chapters of the civil war, in fine amalgam with the traits which have marked southern manhood in its triumph over the adverse conditions that formed the hard heritage of that strife. Long before the divergence of the sections reached a critical phase, he had established a record for unusual ability and for his well-known grace of personality. Admitted to the bar in Jackson, Miss., he made such admirable progress as to attract the attention of Jefferson Davis, forming a friendship with the destined confederate leader which lasted until the latter's death. Major Mims served with distinction in the senate of Mississippi and was also clerk of the supreme court of that state.

His record through the civil war, as told in detail in another column, was one of brilliant and faithful service. When peace was declared he entered the insurance business with General Joseph E. Johnston, at Savannah, subsequently moving to Atlanta as southern manager of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Major Mims' unusual and forceful traits made themselves speedily felt in his local career. From the time of his embarking in business here until the day of his death he was recognized as one of the best informed and most influential life and fire insurance men in the south, taking a leading part in the enormous development that branch of commerce has experienced in this section. He was, in many instances, the court of last resort on difficult and intricate technical points, filling the role of arbiter with a grace, tact and ability that largely explains his professional success and his personal popularity.

As president of the Capital City Club almost continuously since its organization, Major Mims gained a reputation of national scope. It has fallen to his lot to preside at the entertainment of many of the most distinguished public men of America. Each and all of them carried away an impression of rare courtliness, of wit blended with keen and widely comprehensive intellect, of broad human sympathies and of a chivalry the more remarkable for its mingling with the strong practicality of the modern viewpoint.

He was never too actively engaged in his personal or professional affairs to lend his influence to the upbuilding of Atlanta. He has participated in all movements looking to the development of the city, with a fine acmumen and an infectious enthusiasm. It is in this field that he will be sadly missed, no less than in his personal or official capacities. His two years' administration as mayor of this city is sufficiently recent to necessitate no recountal of its success from the standpoint of civic advancement and of individual integrity.

An innumerable host of people who came in contact with his kindly nature and his inspiring and radiant presence will mourn his going as a personal bereavement. Thousands more who did not grasp his hand will miss his sturdy, unbent figure and his rare and sympathetic smile from the streets of Atlanta.

May he sleep sweetly beneath the flowers he loved so well. In their blithesomeness and fragrance and grace they aptly symbolize the life now brought to a well-rounded close.

Square Journalism.

The Observer is not supporting Mr. Howell, but it realizes that justice to him and to its readers demanded that as a matter of news the speech should be reported fairly.—The Moultrie Observer.

The Observer, published at Moultrie, in Colquitt country, thus expresses itself regarding the legitimate province and the duty of a newspaper. The Constitution has no doubt that as the other gubernatorial candidates speak in Colquitt they will be accorded similar courtesy and the readers of The Observer similar justice.

It is not possible or desirable that all men should be of one mind on matters political, or any other live topic. Divergence makes for enlightenment and enlightenment makes for progress. This principle finds unusually pertinent application in the management of newspapers. Editors, no less than other men who feel the responsibilities of citizenship, are entitled to their personal construction of current issues, and to the advocacy or opposition of the same in the light of their duty to the public.

At the same time the reputable newspaper owes a distinct duty to its subscribers and to men in the public eye. Its individual preferences should not prevent it from giving a square deal to men whose views may differ from its own, when those views develop as a matter of news in which the public generally is interested.

The Moultrie Observer has shown conclusively that fidelity to its own prerogative is not incompatible with a fair discharge of its journalistic obligations. Its breadth of view is in refreshing contrast to the policy of proscription and disparagement noticeable in certain sections of the press of Georgia. Its editor should, however, prepare himself for a deluge of rebukes and ridicule from those latter papers whose conceptions of journalism begin and end in violent and abusive partisanship.

The Threatened Advance in Shoes.

The National Shoe Wholesalers' Association, which met in Boston a few weeks ago, by formal resolution expressed the view that the price of shoes will have to be raised in the near future, unless the tariff on hides is removed. The National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association, which met more recently in New York, took the same view. This is not alone the eastern view, for delegations to Washington this year to ask for the removal of the ruinous duty included shoe manufacturers from Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin and Minnesota. This is a national issue, not only as regards the consumer, but as regards the location of the industry affected.

Ex-Governor Douglas, of Massachusetts, well known as a large manufacturer of shoes, succinctly presented the tariff situation from the standpoint of that protesting industry when he said:

The hide duty adds about seven cents a pair to the cost of producing the grade of shoes I manufacture. I also wish to make it quite plain to the public that, while an increase of but 7 cents in the cost of manufacture of a pair of $3.50 shoes may seem a small and unimportant matter, that amount represents more than the net profit of the average manufacturer. . . . To put $2,250,000 into the treasury of the United States as the result of the duty upon hides, we put about $7,000,000 of unnecessary tariff profit in the hands of the beef and leather trusts. This puts an iniquitous tax upon the sole-leather industry of about $10,000,000, and disables that industry in its fight for the markets of the world.

The duty on hides benefits nobody but the butchers, which, abstractly speaking, is to say the packing house trust. The pretext for putting a hide duty on the tariff schedule was to protect the farmers from the cheap hides of South America. This, theoretically, seems rather logical, but in practical experience the man who raises the cattle gets no benefit from the tariff on hides. The benefit goes to the packing house trust which controls the American hide market. Even with the tariff to discourage importation, about one-fourth of the hides used in this country are imported. With the removal of the tariff, foreign hides would enter this country freely enough to cause genuine competition in hides, resulting in a reduction that would be felt by no one but the beef trust, on that side of the market, while every shoe manufacturer and dealer in leather goods would get the benefit, which, of course, would be handed on to the consuming public in the shape of cheaper footgear.

The president of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association is quoted as saying that an increase of 28 per cent in the cost of the raw material has been accompanied by an increase of 25 per cent in the cost of labor. Since the cost of labor is governed by the cost of living, and since there is not the slightest prospect of a reduction in the cost of living, the leather manufacturers have no recourse but to advance the price of their manufactured product, unless congress comes to their rescue by taking the duty off hides.

It is not believed that a stand-pat congress will make any concession in favor of the shoe manufacturers—the dictum has gone forth that the sacred Dingley act is not to be tampered with in the slightest particular. This being the case, the consumer will be given an impressive tariff object lesson when he finds from 25 to 50 cents added to the price of the shoes he buys in the future.

FOND MEMORIES.

Oh! the meadow land, and wildwood,
around the dear old place,
Fond recollections falter as memory's
steps retrace;
The wicket gate, and garden, the old home on the hill,
The sound of flowing water, and the whirring of the mill.

The humming of the honey bees, across the buckwheat field,
The nodding glint of golden grain that royal harvests yield;
The scent of sweet wild roses, that comes up from the lane—
The mingled voice of song birds in harmonious refrain.

The goldenrod beside the fence, and wild flowers everywhere,
The winding road, the little path, the old tree over there;
The old tree, where I quaintly carved
my little sweetheart's name—
From out the past, like some sweet song, her voice drifts back again.

Oh! the meadow land, and wildwood,
the old home on the hill,
The little country churchyard, where so tranquil and so still
The green graves, long neglected, are bright with tangled flowers—
Turn back the page of memeory, to childhood's bygone hours.

DISFRANCHISEMENT TALK HARMFUL TO THE STATE

(From The Savannah Morning News.)

The more the people think about it the more clearly they see it would be a mistake to disfranchise the negroes. If there were need for disfranchisement to secure white supremacy a different question would be presented, but there is no need for it. That this is true is shown by the fact that there was no demand for it before the beginning of the gubernatorial campaign. The people didn't think white supremacy was threatened. They were not apprehensive of negro domination in the state or in any county. The poll tax requirement and the white democratic primary was safeguarding white supremacy satisfactorily.

Why, then, was the disfranchisement issue sprung? Was it not simply because it was thought it would be popular—that it would be a vote getter? It certainly looks so. If the negroes were organizing and trying to get the offices in any of the counties, or if they were trying to get control of the legislature, it would be easy to understand why their disfranchisement was made an issue, but as there was none of these things the conclusion seems inevitable that there were reason, besides those given, for bringing it into the campaign.

Paralyzing Labor Market.

But do not those who present that issue assume a very great responsibility? In the first place it is almost certain that the agitation of it is disorganizing the labor of the state. Farmers are finding it impossible to get all the laborers they want, and as the agitation goes on this difficulty is certain to increase. It stirs up race feeling and that influences the negroes to leave their homes and go to the towns or to the northern states. It is true that their places may be taken by white laborers, but it will be years before the latter will supply the labor demand, and it is by no means certain that white laborers will be satisfactory.

We have pointed out time and time and time again that the negro cannot be legally disfranchised without disfranchising thousands of white men, unless what is called the grandfather clause is adopted, and it is practically certain that disfranchisement by that method will be declared unconstitutional by the supreme court just as soon as that court gets jurisdiction of a case involving it. Those who are advocating disfranchisement are insisting that the negroes can be disfranchised without disfranchising white men. Are not numbers of white men disfranchised in South Carolina? They certainly are. They are to be found in those counties in which the registration officers enforce the registration laws without fear or favor. And they would be disfranchised by the thousands in this state under the educational test.

Why Incur Dangers.

What is the use of inviting the disfranchisement of thousands of white men, the violating of the registration laws and the reduction of the state's representation in congress and the electoral college unless something is to be gained by it? We have white supremacy now, and it is secure. It is obtained by methods adopted under the advice of some of the wisest statesmen Georgia ever had. Why not cling to these methods since they give us white supremacy? We cannot get any more by means of negro disfranchisement, and disfranchisement means the introduction of many evils.

HARMAN HONORS THOMAS.

Well-Known Railroad Man Pays an Eloquent Tribute to His Late Chief.

A beautiful tribute was paid to the late Major J. W. Thomas by Charles E. Harman, general passenger agent of the Western and Atlantic railroad, at the recent memorial meeting of the employees of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, held in Nashville.

"After his prefactory remarks, Mr. Harman said in part:

"He was not only respected and loved by the people of your city and of your state, but was known and beloved as well wherever the rails of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway extended. Upon the occasion of John W. Thomas day at the Tennessee centennial, I requested the mayor of Atlanta, who was a personal friend of mine, to call a mass meeting of our citizens to take steps to have Atlanta represented upon that occasion, and when at the appointed hour I went to the chamber of commerce, expecting to see a few of my personal friends and a few of the friends of the other officers of our company present, I was astounded to find the large hall filled with our most representative citizens, ladies and gentlemen, all eager and anxious to join in doing honor to the beloved president of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway.

"When he went away from us and the news came over the wires to us I had occasion within an hour after that, before the publication of any paper, to walk three or four blocks in the heart of our city, and was stopped a score of times by prominent citizens to express their condolence and sorrow on account of our great loss.

"I desire to express my apreciation of the mind that conceived the idea of placing upon his tomb the beautiful floral tribute representing a pair of scales evenly balanced.

"He was always the same, as I can personally testify, whether it was at his home, his office, in his banker's private office on Wall street in New York, or in the private office of Mr. Rogers, who owned a million dollars' worth of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis stock.

"Mr. Thomas had the power of most readily dispatching business, forming his judgments, determining what was best to be done with almost seemingly a woman's intuition. Nobody ever went into his private office and found his desk littered with papers.

"Mr. Thomas had a keen sense of the ludicrous; enjoyed a bright witticism and always had a hearty contagious laugh for a well-told, clean story.

"Mr. Thomas was great in all the fields of his labors—great in his state, a great force in his city's prosperity, a model railroad president, respected and beloved by every employee from the highest to the most humble; great in all social undertakings; great in enterprises tending to develop and build up the waste places of his beloved country; great in his church and educational work, but greater, nobler and sweeter than all was his home life; great in his tenderness, gentleness and never varying kindness and attentions which his charming wife always received from him, and tonight there is a little woman within the shadow of your state capitol in the black raiment of despair, to whom my heart goes out with unbounded love and sympathy, and who will join with me in saying that take him all in all he was the best man that she and I ever knew. His was a most perfectly rounded character.

"We've a page, golden and bright,
Upon which our love for him to write.
That this may never from the soul depart,
We have entrusted it to the memory of the heart.
There will be no effacement there,
Each pulsation will keep the record clear.
Warm, golden letters all the tablet fill,
Nor lose their luster until the heart stands still."

Supreme Court of Georgia.

GOSSIP AT THE CAPITOL

JOHN S. HYDE, president of the Bath iron works, of Bath, Mo., which is building the great battle ship Georgia, was a caller at the state capitol yesterday, and with Governor Terrell discussed the big war vessel at length.

The governor invited Mr. Hyde to remain over for a couple of days and deliver a talk to the students of the Georgia Tech. Mr. Hyde did not make a positive promise to do this, but the governor thinks he can prevail upon him to deliver an address to the boys at the school.

The Bath iron works is one of the greatest shipbuilding concerns in the world, and Mr. Hyde is famous in that industry, being at the head of his company.

The battle ship Georgia was launched some months ago, the governor and distinguished Georgians, as well as officials of the United States in great numbers, being present on that occasion.

At present there are 1,006 men at work on the vessel, getting it in readiness for the trial trip, which will be made in April. If the ship proves satisfactory on that trip, it will receive the final finishing touches, and constitute thereafter a part of the American navy.

It is the custom, when a war vessel is named for a state, that it be put in commission in the waters of that state, provided this can be done. The Georgia will probably be brought to Brunswick, or perhaps Savannah, early in the fall (it will not be entirely complete in every detail, even if accepted, until August).

It will then be put in commission in Georgia waters, and the officers and crew detailed to the big ship will be formally put in charge of her. Governor Terrell hopes to make this a great and memorable military occasion, and, it is probable, thousands of civilians will also go down to see the big vessel which bears the name of the Empire State of the South.

It is expected that the $17,800 to pay the pension deficit, recently offered to the governor, will be deposited in an Atlanta bank today, or tomorrow, at any rate. It will not be placed in the state treasury for several reasons, among which is the law which would compel the state treasurer to retain the money until the legislature had appropriated it.

The method of getting the money to the unpaid veterans and widows will be very similar to that used when there is no money in a county treasury and jury scrip is discounted by a private citizen, though, in this case, of course, there will be no discount charged.

The governor will issue the warrants to pay the pensions still outstanding, and Pension Commissioner Lindsay will then say, in effect, "The state has no funds to cash these warrants, but a private citizen has authorized me to take them up for him."

Then, when the legislature meets again, an appropriation will be made for paying these warrants out of the state funds, so that the citizen who advances the money will be reimbursed.

The single condition upon which the money was advanced was that the name of the party thus enabling the state to meet the deficit should never be divulged. The governor has maintained the strictest silence in regard to the identity of the generous and patriotic citizen, who is said to be himself a confederate veteran.

State School Commissioner Merritt left yesterday for Cairo, the county seat of Grady county, one of the eight new counties of Georgia. This is court week there, and the citizens of the county, interested in educational matters, thought it would be a good time to arouse enthusiasm over the county school system.

Commissioner Merritt will deliver an address to the people of the county in the superior court room at noon today, and will hold a conference with the teachers and others interested in education.

Miss Clem Hampton, assistant state school superintendent of Florida, is expected to be in the city and call at the state school commissioner's office in the next day or so. Miss Hampton is one of the most accomplished and intellectual women in the south. She is on her way home from the great educational convention in Louisville. She is anxious to have a look at educational systems in this state.

TO FRANK L. STANTON.

(An Appreciation.)

When the babe that dreamed on your mother's breast
Received its soul from the skies,
A chord was lost from the symphonies
That thrills God's paradise.

Yet I think God smiled when He watched its flight
To the weary world below,
And knew he had shortened the sorrowful night
And lessened the burden of woe.

You teach us the songs that the Wild-winds sing,
The whisper the Lily breathes
To its sister flowers in their woodland bowers,
Where the vine round the old oak wreathes.

You lift up our thoughts to the Moon's sweet smile
And unveil the mystery
Of each bright Star in the Blue afar,
As it laughs at its face in the Sea.

For your song is ever of Love and Hope,
Of the Sunlight's afterglow,
Of the silver sand of the Fairyland,
We shall some day find and know.

Till its music has entered many a heart,
Turning to Hope its Fear,
Scattering the shadows far apart,
Till a smile broke through the tear.

So we wait each day for your golden songs,
From the realms of Flowers and of Love;
May your earthly days be many and long,
And fair as the skies above.

A SONG.

The bluebirds are singing—singing away;
Heart of my heart, it is summer today.
The soft western wind is flung through the trees,
And the scent of the blossoms is borne on the breeze.

The silver bright stream, where the white lilies gleam,
Murmurs a song that is sweet as a dream;
A song that goes winging away to the blue—
Heart of my heart, a love song to you.

In the wild woods the violets hide down in the dell,
For the wild woodland fairies are weaving a spell—
Weaving a spell of sunshine and flowers.
Heart of my heart, through enchanted hours.

The green earth is ringing—ringing with song—
Heart of my heart, how it pulses along;
Throbs with our hearts, as we walk hand in hand,
And whisper our love in this glorious land.

LEADER OF SOCIAL LIFE IN THE HIGHEST SENSE

In the Death of Livingston Mims Atlanta and the South Loses a Distinguished Presence. Noted Men His Guests.

By Isma Dooly.

In the death of Major Livingston Mims the Capital City Club, the center of Atlanta's social life, loses its president and Atlanta society loses a man who in every way embodied the qualifications that are essentially those of the leader.

His was the social spirit in its highest sense. He recognized society, not alone as the medium or vehicle through which the leisure class were enabled to indulge in worldly pleasure, but as an organization where the principles of higher civilization might find their standardbearers, and where people of personal achievement, representatives of the best human endeavor, might find appreciative recognition.

These people he sought out and supported, whether he met them in exclusive gatherings within the reception rooms of the Capital City Club or whether in places of lesser distinction. And to them he was ever inspirational, bringing out the best there was in them, and giving generously in return the best there was in him.

His Coming To Atlanta.

When twenty-three years ago the citizens of Atlanta realized the necessity of an organization where social life might have some concentrated medium, and the Capital City Club had come to be, Major Mims purchased the present family residence, which at that time was almost a mile beyond what might have been called the residence portion of the town.

At that time he had but recently made Atlanta his home, but his social spirit had made itself felt, and although not a member of the newly organized club, he was called to its leadership without dissenting voice, and made president without the preliminary election to membership. Through his beautifully lived and exemplary life, have social honors thus sought him and found him ever the man worthy the trust—the administrator "without fear and without reproach."

Once taking up the club's leadership, the major was unflinching in his duties, his interest and his enthusiasm and as the club grew in importance, not only as a factor of local civic progress, but as a meeting place where distinguished men from without the city gates met with and came to know the upbuilders of her success, the major was recognized among his fellow club members as without peer, and given unanimous election each year.

It was his eloquence as the club host, the loyal citizen, and the earnest man that rang in the ears of strangers as they left the club banquets to return to their homes in all sections, enthusiastic in their praise of the city in the new south that combined in her leaders all the glories of ante-bellum chivalry, with the thrift and the energy and the active "spirit of the times."

Major Mims as Host.

To enumerate the many times when the major, as president of the club, arose to the occasion as host, would be to chronicle the happenings of his every appearance there, but on no occasion was he as host happier than when with his arm through that of his beloved friend, Jefferson Davis, he escorted him to the club that the latter might inscribe his name on the register, the incident witnessed and described with graphic sweetness at the time by the immortal Henry time by the immortal Henry Grady, who, with Mr. Davis, had assisted at the unveiling of the Ben Hill monument.

It was Major Mims who extended the club's welcome to Grover Cleveland on his first and memorable visit here, when the club gave its first large entertainment, and it was he who bowed over the hand of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison when welcoming her to the club as the wife of the nation's president.

It was he who electrified with his powers of oratory the group of distinguished men, who with David Bennett Hill, Senator Voorhees, Roswell P. Flower, Patrick Collins, John McCaul met in the club after the unveiling of the Grady monument with those representative Georgians, Patrick Walsh, Evan P. Howell, George Adair and others, all those mentioned with the exception of Hill having now passed "beyond the river."

Senator Hill's Comment.

It was on this occasion that Senator Hill, having heard the addresses the night before of John Temple Graves, Fleming G. duBignon and others, and those at the moment of Walsh, Howell and Adair, and finally Major Mims, turned to Mr. Fulton Colville on his left, and exclaimed: "Are all your men orators?"

"I have never heard greater oratory, more stirring eloquence than that just expressed by Major Mims. Why do you not force him to represent you in the nation's capitol?"

Similar tributes were paid the club's host when he did the honors of the reception given at the time of the "Peace Jubilee," when none other than the good President McKinley was the city's guest, in company with Joseph Wheeler, Richmond Pearson Hobson, General Shafter, General Lawton and others of similar note, who had at that stirring period raised high the flag of the nation, and proclaimed the glory of the republic far and wide.

And on none of these occasions, and in these assemblies of illustrious individuals, can the eye of the mind, looking back, fail to see that there was no more impressive individuality ever in the midst than that of Major Livingston Mims.

His majestic shoulders and bearing, his superb head, his wonderfully expressive face, his manner of matchless grace, were all expressions of a spirit that animated what might be termed a presence—a presence impressive and farreaching.

"I never looked at him in a large assembly," said a loving friend of his yesterday, "that I did not recall the tribute paid Burke, who was said to possess to a wonderful degree what the English call 'presence.'

"'It was so marked,' said the biographer of the great Englishman, 'that to share Burke's umbrella for a moment in the storm and yet never know his name was enough to impress the favored one for a lifetime that he had enjoyed the presence of a great man.'"

Sorrow at Capitol City Club.

And the members of the Capital City Club today, from the oldest to the youngest, turn their eyes with grief and affection to the portrait of their now dead leader, whose memory will ever be a living inspiration, and go with bowed heads to his home where 'neath a cover lid of the flowers he loved so well in life, he is still a commanding presence in death.

His factorship as a social spirit in public life presents a picture striking and picturesque, but it was at home, as monarch of all he surveyed, as host, as loving husband, devoted father and faithful friend, that those who know him best are drawn to think of him.

A privilege may all those count it who have known Major Mims in his home, who have heard him at his table, and who appreciate what were his scholarly attainments.

Aside from his personal magnetism, his subtle charm of conversation and manner, his brilliant mind was one of unusual cultiavtion. He was educated along the highest lines, a lover of the classics, a Latin scholar of marked ability, and as ready in his quotations from Horace, Cicero and Virgil as he was in selecting and so eloquently interpretating the most masterful thoughts of Shakespeare.

And when in bringing in touch his dinner parties of eight and ten people, he would charm them in narrating stories of Samuel Johnson or Ben Johnson, or Sheridan, Lord Chesterfield and the men of that interesting period of English letters, one could not but marvel at his memory, his accuracy of quotation, and wonder if those men who have come down to history as scholars and wits and raconteurs, were any more eloquent in the expression of their own thoughts than was the major as their raconteur.

With his heart all loving of the best in human kind, his native wit and his broad culture, it was with ease that on his right he could impress the statesman or scholar with his knowledge of politics and diplomacy, and turning to the left, bring a blush of pleasure to the young woman, charmed at being his guest.

At his table he unselfishly sought to bring out each and every one at his and her best. To him no flower was born to blush unseen. He was quick to recognize genius and talent, and it was his joy to encourage it, and bring others to applaud it. He was a diplomat in the highest sense; clever but never crafty, ever ready to please, but never the slave to mere policy, for who among those who know him well do not recall his frequent quotation of those lines:

"What am I to Hecuba, or Hecuba to me, that I should do those things?"

Of him it may be truly said, "To know him was to love him."

TRIBUTE OF INSURANCE MEN.

Managers, General and Special Agents Gathered Yesterday Afternoon.

A special invitation was sent out on Monday morning by Secretary Fleming, of the Southeastern Tariff Association, to all managers, general and special agents and other insurance men for a meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to pay tribute to the memory of Major Livingston Mims. The meeting was largely attended and was presided over by Thomas Egleston, Mr. Fleming acting as secretary.

Captain Gay paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of Major Mims, referring to his kindly spirit and the general affection and esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. Major Thomas Peters, who received his first insurance appointment from the hand of Major Mims, spoke of their acquaintance with deep feeling, in paying him personal tribute. S. Y. Tupper spoke of the influence which Major Mims had exercised upon the early history of insurance in all its branches in the south, and upon his recommendation, a resolution was adopted by the meeting that Mr. Egleston appoint a special committee, which should give deliberate thought and preparation to a memorial which is intended to embody the spirit of underwriting fraternity and high business influence which the life of Major Mims so fully exemplified. The resolution was unanimously carried.

It was further resolved that the fire insurance people of Atlanta meet today in a body at the residence of the deceased. The insurance offices will be closed during the time of the funeral this afternoon. The South Eastern Tariff Association sent a floral tribute in recognition of his honored services as president of that organization, which position he held five years.

GLAZEBROOK WILL ATTEND.

Prominent Fraternity Man To Speak at Alpha Tau Omega Banquet in Atlant.

The Atlanta alumni association of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity was notified yesterday by Rev. Otis A. Glazebrook, D. D., of Elizabeth, N. J., that he would accept the association's invitation to be the chief guest of honor at the banquet to be given about the middle of May. Dr. Glazebrook is rector of St. John's church, Elizabeth. He is one of the founders of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and is known to thousands of members of the fraternity throughout the country, and is greatly beloved by all of them. Peculiar interest attaches to Dr. Glazebrook's forthcoming visit to Atlanta, because he was for many years rector of Christ church, Macon, Ga., and became widely known in this state.

Dr. Glazebrook will deliver the principal address at the banquet.

Another distinguished guest at this banquet will be worthy Grand High Chief Fenn, of New York city. This gentleman is regarded as one of the most eloquent speakers in the United States.

The Atlanta Alumni Association expects all members of the fraternity in Atlanta to be present at the banquet. There are in this city fully 150 A. T. O.'s. Each active chapter in the state will be invited to send at least one representative to the banquet, and the A. T. O.'s in each leading city of the state will also be invited to send a representative.

In this connection it will be of interest to A. T. O.'s throughout Georgia to know that the active chapters of the fraternity, at the university, Athens; Mercer university, Macon; Emory college, Oxford, and the School of Technology, Atlanta, are flourishing. Altogether the fraternity's interests in Georgia were never before in better condition.

Seeking Lost Steamer.

Mobile, Ala., March 5.—The fruit steamer Fort Gaines has not arrived. She is now six days overdue from Central American ports. No apprehension is felt as she was spoken last Thursday off Cuba by the steamer Corinto, which arrived in New Orleans Friday. The captain of the Fort Gaines at that time signaled: "All well; need no assistance. Having trouble with pumps."

The steamer Hispania has been dispatched from New Orleans to search for the lost steamer.

MAJOR MIMS YIELDS TO DEATH AFTER STRUGGLE

Former Mayor of Atlanta Passed Away Early Yesterday Morning.

TO HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES AT THE RESIDENCE TODAY

The Entire City Pays Loving Tribute to the Memory of One of Atlanta's Most Loved Sons. Sketch of His Life and Notable Career.

Major Livingston Mims died yesterday morning at 3 o'clock at his residence, corner Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue, after an illness of a little more than a week. Death resulted from diabetes.

Few Atlantans have been loved by the people as Major Mims was loved. He was a favorite among all classes. The passing away of the charming raconteur, the brave old soldier, the kindly hearted cavalier, the former mayor, and the man who was for twenty years Atlanta manager of the New York Life Insurance Company, and for twenty years president of the Capital City Club, will cause deep sorrow in Atlanta, at the homes of both rich and poor.

Major Mims had been seriously ill for little more than a week. Last Thursday his condition became so dangerous that it was thought he could not live through the night. Friday morning, however, he rallied, and it was believed that possibly his remarkable constitution would aid him in winning the fight against the disease. Saturday, however, he was weaker, and this condition continued through Sunday.

While it was then realized that his death was approaching, it was the belief of his family that he would last for several days longer. Early yesterday morning it became apparent that death was near at hand. At his bedside were his family and his physicians, Drs. A. W. Calhoun, Willis F. Westmoreland and Hunter P. Cooper.

Major Mims had a beautiful death. When the end came at 3 o'clock in the mroning it was as if he had simply closed his eyes and gone peacefully to sleep.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sue Harper Mims; his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Thompson; his grandson, Livingston Mims Thompson; his son in law, Joseph Thompson, and relatives in Mississippi and South Carolina.

Funeral This Afternoon.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence, corner Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue. The interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Services will be conducted by Bishop C. K. Nelson, of the Episcopal church. A prayer will be offered by Rev. D. W. W. Landrum, pastor of the First Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Schofield, of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will read passages from the Scriptures.

Hymns will be sung by Dr. William Owens and Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin.

The pallbearers will be ten of the personal friends of Major Mims. They are Robert J. Lowry, Thomas Egleston, J. C. Haskell, William T. Newman, Samuel M. Inman, Edward C. Peters, Edward S. Gay, Willis E. Ragan, Fulton Colville and Joseph S. Raine.

The following gentlemen will constitute the honorary escort:

Escort of Veterans.

The death of Major Mims has been made the subject of a special order by the commanding officer of Atlanta camp, No. 159, United Confederate Veterans, of which he was a member. The order also appoints an honorary escort to walk with his body from his home to its last resting place.

The order, which was issued yesterday morning, follows:

"The death of Major Livingston Mims has been announced, and our camp is once again summoned to pay tribute to a gallant, loyal-hearted comrade, one of the truest and most chivalric of our members.

"His funeral will be held tomorrow. The following members of the camp are detailed as an escort, and will attend at the appointed hour and place: Edward S. Gay, W. L. Calhoun, John W. Renfroe, James W. English, Dan O. Dougherty, W. D. Ellis, Samuel B. Scott, Robert M. Clayton, Judge George Hillyer, Clement A. Evans, W. W. Draper, A. J. McBride, A. J. West, E. H. Thornton, C. W. Motes.

"Other members will join in this tribute to our distinguished comrade.

"By order of Wiley C. Howard, commander; W. H. Harrison, adjutant."

Former Mayors To Meet.

The organization of the former mayors of Atlanta will meet this morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of taking action upon the death of Major Mims.

The following notice was issued yesterday by Colonel William H. Hulsey, chairman of the organization:

"There will be a meeting of the ex-mayors of the city tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the mayor's office, to take such action as may be deemed meet and proper relative to the death of the late ex-mayor Hon. Livingston Mims.

"The full attendance is desired. Respectfully, William H. Hulsey, chairman ex-mayors."

City's Marks of Respect.

The offices at the city hall will be closed today during the entire afternoon as a mark of respect to the memory of Major Mims. The city flag is at half mast, and the general council, which adjourned yesterday upon learning of the death of the distinguished Atlantan, will attend the funeral in a body.

Carriages for the members of council will be at the city hall this afternoon at 1:45 o'clock.

Mayor James G. Woodward yesterday sent the following special communication to the general council:

"Atlanta, Ga., March 5, 1906.—To the General Council, City of Atlanta—Gentlemen: With feelings of profoundest sorrow I deem it my official duty to call your attention to the death of Major Livingston Mims, which occurred this morning at 3 o'clock. During the years of 1901 and 1902 he served over the destinies of our beloved city as mayor with distinction and honor. Few men in Atlanta can lay claim to longer or more loyal citizenship than this distinguished southerner.

"Coming to Atlanta many years ago from the state of Mississippi he has, by his untiring zeal and his fidelity to Atlanta, contributed largely to the growth and prosperity of our fair city. While never, in a general way, taking an active hand in city politics, his administration as mayor was marked with that degree of efficiency and devotion to Atlanta which endeared this courtly gentleman to all classes.

"As a mark of esteem for his services to the city I have ordered the city flag at half mast.

"As a further tribute to his valued service as a chief executive of this city, I would respectfully suggest that the general council adjourn without transaction of official business to such date as agreeable after the burial of the deceased.

"In order to allow the employees in the various departments of the city to which Major Mims had become greatly attached, an opportunity to attend the funeral, I shall order the city hall offices to close at noon tomorrow.

"I also deem it befitting that the mayor and general council should attend the funeral in a body, and so recommend.

"Respectfully submitted,

"J. G. WOODWARD, Mayor."

Council Adopts Resolutions.

Directly after the roll had been called yesterday afternoon during the regular session of the general council Councilman Edmund W. Martin, of the second ward, offered the following preamble and resolutions concerning the death of the former mayor, and they were unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

"Whereas, The mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta have heard with deep sorrow of the death of Hon. Livingston Mims, who during his term of office so worthily filled the high position of mayor and left behind a record of capacity and high official integrity and which was characterized by devotion to Atlanta; and

"Whereas, In the death of this devoted citizen, polished gentleman, sincere patriot, brave soldier and former mayor, this city has sustained an irreparable loss; therefore be it

The Life of Major Mims.

In the room occupied by the late Major Livingston Mims there is a marble slab over the mantelpiece with this motto painted upon it:

"The pleasure of doing good is the only one that never wears out."

The motto was original with Major Mims. He simply put into words one day something that he had known for many years. His motto had its influence upon his life. He lived up to his motto.

The story of his life begins in South Carolina. He was the son of a wealthy and aristocratic family. It is highly characteristic of Major Mims that so little is known of his early life. Ever reticent to speak of himself and of his own affairs, he would change the subject when questioned, as if he did not think himself worth talking about. The consequence is that there are no adequate biographical sketches of him in any of the books that should contain them, and all of them are as silent as he was concerning the date of his birth.

It is certain that Major Mims was more than eighty years of age, and he probably was nearer eighty-five. He would laugh merrily when asked about his age, and say he had forgotten, and when making his returns for taxation he usually wrote "turned sixty." Whatever his age was in years, he was young in heart and mind and body, and he kept himself so with his sunny disposition, his warm heart and the love which he was ready to lavish upon all who gave him opportunity.

His parents moved to Mississippi when he was still young, and there, years before the civil war, he is known to have been a wealthy young planter, engaging conspicuously in the politics of the time and occupying positions of honor and trust.

Commissioner in Chancery.

In his early manhood he was a clerk in the old chancery court at Jackson, the capital of Mississippi. Later he became a deputy and finally was made commissioner in chancery.

The statesmen of the time were his friends and associates, and among them are the names of some who are famous in the chronicles of the state. He served on the staffs of nearly every governor of Mississippi in those times—Governor Joseph W. Matthews, Governor John A. Quitman, Governor Henry S. Foote, Governor Albert G. Brown, and others.

He took activ epart in the conventions of the democratc party during those days, particularly in the last one before the war, when Governor Brown and Jefferson Davis were both in nomination as the choice of Mississippi for the presidency of the United States. Major Mims had in his pocket the letter of Governor Brown declining the candidacy, which he read at the opportune moment and withdrew his name.

He was a member of the Mississippi state senate in 1860, and took a prominent part in secession. When the war began he did not wait for the commission that would have been issued to him, but enlisted as a private in one of the first companies recruited in his state. His friend, President Jefferson Davis, took him out of the ranks shortly afterwards and made him chief quartermaster of the military department of Mississippi, in which capacity he served with such signal ability as to win for him the personal thanks of the division and corps commanders.

He was also on the staff of Lieutenant General John C. Pemberton, and actively participated in the fights at Jackson, Raymond, Champion's Hill and Vicksburg. After the siege and surrender of the latter place, he was attached to the staff of General Joseph E. Johnston, afterwards his partner in business, for whom he ever had the warmest affection.

Major Mims in Business.

After the war he conceived and executed a plan for bringing south the managing agency of one of the large life insurance companies of New York, and visiting that city in person he had little difficulty in convincing the late President Beers, of the New York Life Insurance Company, that his appointment as general southern manager would be greatly to the benefit of the company. Therefore, in 1868, with his commission as general manager of the New York Life for Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida in his pocket, he returned and formed a partnership with General Joseph E. Johnston and Governor Ben R. Humphreys, of Mississippi, under the firm name of Joseph E. Johnston & Co. About the same time General Johnston visited England and returned with the commission of general agent of the Liverpool and London and Globe in practically the same territory. The business of the firm was conducted, for the time, from three separate offices, General Johnston making his headquarters in Savannah; Major Mims, in Selma, Ala., and Governor Humphreys, in Vicksburg.

The three offices were consolidated in one at Atlanta in 1877, about which time Governor Humphreys died, and which circumstance gave Major Mims to Atlanta as a citizen. In 1887 General Johnston retired from the firm, leaving Major Mims nominally, as well as practically, manager of the business.

He was president of the Southeastern Tariff Association from 1889 to 1894, and so popular was he as the presiding officer of that organization that upon his voluntary retirement he was presented with a magnificent silver service. In 1893 he was elected president of the Georgia Association of Life Insurers and was again elected in 1897.

No Part in Politics.

Despite the fact that Major Mims had played so prominent a part in the politics of Mississippi, he took no hand in Georgia political affairs. He was mentioned for the United States senate in 1896 with some earnestness by his friends, but he made no effort to obtain that office.

In 1900 Major Mims was announced by his friends for the mayoralty of Atlanta. He won and gave Atlanta what was in many respects the most remarkable and successful administration in its history. His term of office began on the first Monday of January, 1901, and ended on the first Monday of January, 1903. Before taking the oath of office he spent days and nights reading about conditions in municipalities all over the world, and those who went to his office to advise him found that he had advice to give to them.

In his inaugural address he announced that he would do all things "with an eye single to the best interests of the city," and he did it, so fearlessly, so positively, so convincingly, that after two stormy years, years of crimination and recrimination, of bitterness and strife, he retired from the mayor's office with the love, admiration and best wishes of those who had in the beginning opposed him.

His Franchise Fights.

He declared that while he was mayor of Atlanta no franchises should be granted for longer terms than twenty-one years. He granted many and kept his word, except in the instance of the Forrest avenue franchise, which he granted for fifty years, but the fight he made for "the best interests of the city" was such that in after years he usually referred to the disquieting period as that of "the late street railway unpleasantness."

It was during the administration of Major Mims that franchises were first assessed for taxation. The gross income tax that the Georgia Railway and Electric Company now pays to the city began while he was mayor.

Financially, the administration of Major Mims was a success. Thirty thousand dollars in debts had been left for him to pay. He paid them, and his administration turned over to the succeeding one $819.39, in addition, of course, to Atlanta's perpetual charter fund of $175,000.

Atlanta issued $200,000 of water works bonds during the administration of Major Mims at a time when other cities were floating bonds which paid 4, 5 and 6 per cent. The lowest interest Atlanta had ever paid on bonds was 4 per cent. Over the protest of many Major Mims cut the interest on these $200,000 of thirty-year bonds to 3 1-2 per cent, and sold them for a premium of $10,000, a thing that had not happened before and which has not happened since.

Was Immovable in Principles.

These are not all the notable things that happened during the administration of Major Mims, but they were the most important. During all the time he found time to quote his Shakespeare, relate his anecdotes and laugh and joke with those who visited his office. But even when he laughed and joked Major Mims did not forget the city. When he announced for a principle it was for good reasons, and he often would destroy with just a sentence or two the effect of an hour's argument by those who sought to change him. During what he termed "the late street railway unpleasantness" he was as immovable as the bedrock granite, and, indeed, before his administration had closed those who had combatted his ideas agreed with him.

He was a natural leader among men. Whether he found himself in a drawing room, at a dinner table, in a business office or at a political meeting, it was he who was given the leading place by all the others, because of that indescribable quality which is recognized unconsciously.

In his private life Major Mims was a beautiful character. He was always helping some one, and there are hundreds of young men and women who today owe much to his kindness, his generosity, the helping hand that he was always willing to offer with his cheery, kindly smile. Major Mims knew that "the pleasure of doing good is the only one that never wears out."

ASSOCIATION'S RESOLUTIONS.

Georgia Life Insurers Meet in Respect to the Memory of Major Mims.

At a meeting of the Georgia Association of Life Insurers the following resolutions in respect to the memory of Major Livingston Mims were adopted:

"Whereas, by the death of our friend and associate, Major Livingston Mims, we are called upon to express our sense of grief and bereavement and to pay tribute to the memory of one who so signally and conspicuously graced our profession, we would mention that Major Mims, immediately after the civil war, appreciated the importance of the beneficent work of life insurance and placed his valuable talents at the service of the New York Life Insurance Company.

"When Major Mims entered the life insurance profession it was at a time when the work needed men of his attainments to formulate and develop its interests in these southern states. Associating himself with General J. E. Johnston and ex-Governor B. G. Humphries, of Mississippi, he developed the southern territory for his company many years in advance of similar efforts on the part of others who have followed him.

"Major Mims blazed the path and all who are today engaged in the work are following in his tracks. There is no instance of so large an organization covering so thoroughly and efficiently so large a field as was the territory organized by his efforts.

"The Capital City Club, of which he was the honored president, will rightly extol his social qualities, and the Fire Insurance Association may well remember his distinguished services in their business, while all Atlantans will remember his executive ability and his distinguished services as the city's executive. We indorse all that may or can be said as to his preeminent services in whatever work he undertook, but we honor him as the Nestor of life insurance in the southern states, and remember with pride our honored association with him when he was the esteemed president of our association;

"Therefore be it resolved, first, That in the death of Major Livingston Mims our association has lost a beloved member and our profession suffered the loss of one of its most distinguished workers.

"Second, That we mourn his loss and extend our since sympathy to his bereaved family.

"Third, That these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our association and a copy of same furnished to the press and to the family of our deceased friend and associate."

A piece of steel placed between two polar magnets will be attracted by one and repelled by the other. It takes considerable effort to force the steel toward the repellent magnet. It requires almost no effort to make it approach the attracting magnet.

Such is the position of the traveling man who is carrying both advertised and unadvertised goods. The advertised goods are attracted to the dealer's shelves, with a power that almost takes them out of the drummer's hands. The unadvertised goods must overcome the negative repulsion of similar goods, already on the dealer's shelves, unsold because there has been no definite call for them by name. Advertised goods are the positive magnet attracting through the retailer's store. Unadvertised goods are the negative magnet repelling the drummer, making his audiences fewer and fewer, and making the net results scarcer and scarcer.

All advertising in THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL and THE SATURDAY EVENING POST is directed to creating an eager market, to create a demand which will work back through the drummer, jobber, wholesaler, to the manufacturer.

STOVE RATE CASE AGAIN DELAYED

Bill Charging Impertinence Filed by Commission.

Document Charges That Original Injunction Petition Was Practically Based on Circular 305, Which Has Since Been Revoked.

The Georgia railroad commission yesterday filed in the United States circuit court a "bill in equity for impertinence" against the Southern, the Central and other railroad lines which recently secured injunctions against circulars 305 and 306.

This bill alleging impertinence, the first of the sort ever filed in this court, charges that the railroads in their petition for injunction in the stove rate case copied at length excerpts from circular 305, which was subsequently revoked by the commission, and asserts that because of this revocation the original injunction petition brought by the railroads against the commission is not relevant.

The injunction suit, which has been postponed frequently, was delayed indefinitely yesterday. The case will not be heard until the bills of impertinence are argued.

ADDITION TO THE CAPITOL.

Three-Story Building Will Be Added at Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., March 5.—(Special.) The capital commission decided today to erect a three-story addition to the present building on the south end of the lot at the cross hall. It will cost not over $50,000, and work is to begin by the first of April. At a meeting of the committee next Monday working plans will be presented and bids asked. No assignment of rooms has been made. This is a change from the plan first adopted, which contemplated a two-story addition.

Complain at Quarantine.

Havana, March 5.—The American Club of Havana has supplemented the cablegram which was sent to Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, at Washington, on March 2, asking for a modification of the quarantine established at gulf ports by the United States, by similar cablegrams, to the health officials of Louisiana, Alabama and Florida. Besides reiterating that there is no yellow fever in Cuba, the dispatches urge that an establishment of an outgoing quarantine at Havana under the supervision of the United States marine hospital service, would fulfill every requirement.

MAJOR SLATON'S BIRTHDAY TO BE CELEBRATED TODAY

Teachers and School Children Will Unite in the Observance--Council Congratulates Superintendent.

THE birthday of Major W. F. Slaton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, will be observed today by the teachers and school children of the city.

In the rooms of the Woman's Club in the Grand opera house a reception will be tendered Major Slaton this afternoon at 4 o'clock by the teachers of the public schools.

In addition to the teachers there will be present at the reception members of Major Slaton's family, members of the board of education and of the city council, members of the board of lady visitors to the schools, members of former boards of education, the teachers of the Boys' High school and of the Girls' High school, the supervisors of instruction in the various departments and the supernumeraries of the schools.

To Present Pictures.

During the reception the members of Major Slaton's family will present each grammar school in the city with a handsome portrait of the major, to be hung upon the walls of the schools. These pictures will serve as constant reminders of the work of Major Slaton during his long years of service in the public school system.

Trinity church and Sunday school will send their birthday greetings to Major Slaton. For years he has been a worker in this church and he is loved by every member of the congregation.

Delightful refreshments will be an addition to the charms of the afternoon and Major Slaton will doubtless be called upon to respond to a timely toast.

Resolutions by Council.

At yesterday's brief session of city council Alderman Hirsch introduced resolutions congratulating Major Slaton, on his seventy-fifth anniversary and thanking him for his work in behalf of the city schools. The resolutions which follow were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, On the 6th day of March, 1906, Major W. F. Slaton will have attained the age of 75; and

"Whereas, Major Slaton has given thirty-two of his best years in the service of the city; and

"Whereas, By his untiring efforts and faithful endeavors, he has given to this city her most excellent public school system, thus giving to the men of today their most valuable assets; and

"Whereas, By his high attainments and unimpeachable honor, he has forever endeared himself to the people of Atlanta.

"Be it resolved, That the general council of the city of Atlanta in body assembled, as a token of the high esteem in which he is held, does hereby extend its hearty congratulations to Major Slaton upon his attainment of his seventy-fifth anniversary, and felicitates with him upon this happy occasion.

"Be it further resolved, That the general council take this opportunity of expressing its high appreciation of the worthy and valuble service rendered by her servant to the children of Atlanta as well as to the city at large.

"Be it further resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this council and that a copy thereof be sent to Major Slaton."

Dodge-Walker.

A MARRIAGE in Washington last week, which had its interest for Georgians, was that of Miss Elizabeth Knowlton Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison H. Dodge, to Ensign Hugh McLean Walker, U. S. N., at St. John's church.

The bridegroom is a Georgian, who has a large personal and family acquaintance in this state, and the following is an account of the wedding: The bride and her father went to the altar, preceded by the ushers, Lieutenant Winston, Assistant Naval Constructor Askerson, Ensign Norris, Ensign Rowan, Ensign William W. Smith, Ensign Osburn, Ensign Freyer and Ensign Read, these officers wearing their full dress uniforms. The bridegroom's young sister, little Miss Janet Walker, walked first of the bridesmaids, the others being Miss Schroeder, Miss Edith Miller, Miss Lilly Almy of Ohio, and Miss Mary V. Dodge and Miss Lucreta Dodge as maid of honor. The attractive young bride was modishly gowned in a princesse robe of white satin with a guimpe of lace, on which rested a necklace of pearls. Her tulle veil was crowned with orange blossoms and her shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and japonicas reached to the hem of her dress. The maid of honor wore cream Spanish lace over liberty satin and a leghorn, flat trimmed, with cream ruches of tulle. The bridesmaids wore trained dresses and leghorn flats, trimmed with pale blue tulle ruches and blue tips. They carried bouquets of roses. Ensign Kibbee, U. S. N., was best man. Bishop Satterlee performed the marriage ceremony and was assisted by the rector of St. John's, Rev. Roland Cotton Smith. The chancel was set with palms and foliage plants and the altar vases were filled with bunches of white and pink roses. A small reception for followed at the Dodge home, 2016 R stret, before Ensign and Mrs. Walker left for their honeymoon trip south.

Family Reunion.

AN interesting event of Sunday was the reunion of Colonel R. J. Redding's family, at the home of his son, Mr. Arthur Redding, on North Boulevard.

Three generations were represented at the 6 o'clock dinner, including Colonel Redding, of Experiment, Ga., and his children and grandchildren, and the table was beautiful in its decoration of pink roses and ferns.

The party was composed of Captain and Mrs. R. J. Redding, of Experiment; Mrs. Mary Redding Logan, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Quillian, Mr. and Mrs. Seneca Sawtell, of Griffin; Mr. and Mrs. Will C. King, of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Redding, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Redding, Mrs. Ramao de Azevedo Freitas and Mrs. Augusto Duarte, of Portugal; Mr. Clayton King, Miss Mary Quillian, Master Robert J. Redding, Jr., Augustus Hester Redding, Henry George Redding, Robert Redding Sawtell, William Howard King, Fletcher A. Quillian, Jr., Robert Freitas Redding, Mary Isabel Redding and Roberta Mallisa Quillian.

Domino Club.

MRS. J. G. HEMMER entertained the South Side Domino Club at her home on Capitol avenue last Friday afternoon.

The house was beautifully decorated in palms, smilax and narcissus, the color scheme of yellow and white being carried out in the delicious refreshments that were served during the afternoon, with Miss Margaret Eakin, sister of the hostess, presiding at the buffet.

The first prize, a dainty lace fan, was won by Mrs. R. G. Black, while the consolation was awarded to Mrs. W. C. Hutt.

Mrs. Hemmer is an ideal hostess, and those who braved the inclemency of the weather voted the affair a delightful one.

Dutch Supper.

AN enjoyable occasion of the past week was a Dutch supper given by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stocks at their beautiful home on Fair street.

One of the most delightful features of the evening was the music rendered by the Misses Gavins and Miss Annie Wilkie, after which a delightful supper was served in courses.

Among those present were Misses Evelyn and Reseda Thornton, Miss Kidwell, Miss Annie Wilkie, Misses Laura Arnold, Hilda Morgan, Mildred Davison, Kate Kidwell, Kate, Annie and Jennie Gavins, Messrs. Cliff Stocks, Hudie Wilkie, Milton Morgan, John Kidwell, Little Kidwell, Dick Alley, Eugene Thornton, Frank Dooly, Tom Foster, A. W. King, little Miss Elizabeth Stocks, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stocks.

Miss Raoul's Talk at the Club.

THE social service class of the Atlanta Woman's Club met yesterday afternoon in the club rooms, when there was a large audience present, made up of men and women interested in the subject under study.

The speaker of the occasion was Miss Rebecca Raoul, district secretary of the Asssociated Charities, an organization accomplishing through its division here as elsewhere, a fine work toward the amelioration of the conditions of the poor.

Miss Raoul spoke from the standpoint of the student of sociology, having made practical investigation of conditions as they exist among the poor of Atlanta, and her remarks were deeply impressive and ably expressed.

She explained that charity in the past had often been used as a species of "fire" insurance—people gave in order to save themselves from punishment. A time followed later when the poor were thought of as people, it is true, but thought of as belonging to a totally different species of human beings. Now we think of them, or at least the new charity teaches us to think of the poor as human beings, born in unfortunate circumstances, and without advantages, but in other respects the counterpart of ourselves.

Money will never overcome this difference of education, she reasoned. Personal service is what is needed, and a service which is intelligent, patient, courageous and faithful; intelligent in giving advice and in teaching the use of advantages already within the reach; patient with shortcomings and backslidings; courageous to withhold gifts, and see suffering that teaches self-control; faithful to have faith in our common human nature to respond to the call and influence of a higher life.

The visitor can so often supply information, she explained, as to the best way to spend money—the sort of food that should be eaten—the kinds of medicines to be used. A visitor can avoid the disadvantages and waste of the instalment plan of buying, by encouraging a little self-denial for a time in order to save for a cash purchase; and can protect from the evils of the small money lender. Often laws for the protection of the poor of which they have never heard can be invoked for their protection. And by no means least of all, a visitor supplies cheerfulness, and a topic of conversation in the home life.

But a visitor can do nothing without becoming a friend, and what he can do is comprehended within the best meaning of that word. He should never attempt to use his influence until he has it.

A committee from the Woman's Club has prepared an elaborate bibliography for the study of social service.

MORE SUFFERING THAN EXPECTED

Meridian Decides To Accept Voluntary Outside Aid.

Many Citizens and Convicts Are at Work Clearing Away the Debris Caused by the Tornado, but No More Bodies Have Been Found.

Meridian, Miss., March 5.—No additional bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the buildings wrecked by the tornado, but hundreds of men are still at work searching for missing persons. The suffering has been found to be greater among the poorer people than had been at first supposed. Several thousand carpenters and others went to work this morning, rebuilding and repairing the destroyed districts. Additional convicts have been requested from Governor Vardaman, and are expected to arrive tonight and join in the work of clearing away the debris.

The general relief committee at noon resolved to accept any contributions from whatever source, the developments being such that aid will of necessity be required. Several thousand dollars were received from outside sources this morning and added to the general relief fund. Numerous additional injured have been discovered, but none are expected to die. Eighteen bodies have been taken to the morgue so far, but others are believed to be buried in the ruins. Two bodies were shipped out of town, making a total of twenty. It is believed that the death list will now exceed twenty-five.

The work of gangs of convicts both from the state farm at Rankin, and from the city prisons, as well as thousands of citizens, in clearing away the debris of the tornado of Friday night, continued all last night without interruption, a cordon of soldiers being drawn around the places where the work was going on to prevent the morbid crowds from coming too close to the debris and interfering with the progress of operations.

As to colors, Miss White said white or gray will be stylish, but the Elgin black runabout dresses, trimmed with white lace, will be the proper thing for this season.

White silk gloves must be worn invariably.

in the house. It gives that rich beefy flavor to soups, sauces and re-cooked meats.

The flavor of meats is mostly in its juice, so when the juice is cooked out, some kind of seasoning is necessary to make meat palatable when served a second time. Armour's restores that delicious beefy flavor to meats when warmed over.

Armour's Extract of Beef is the real essence of prime beef. It is always ready for use and will keep in any climate.

Contest for Judgeship and Solicitorship Provoke Interest.

Cedartown, Ga., March 5.—(Special.)—There are two interesting races on in this judicial circuit for judge and solicitor general of the Tallapoosa circuit. Judge Bartlett is a candidate for reelection and is opposed by Hon. Price Edwards, of Buchanan, and both gentlemen have strong friends who are predicting the success of their respective favorites. Solicitor W. K. Fielder is also a candidate for reelection and is opposed by Hon. A. J. Camp, of Dallas. There are four counties in the circuit and each is confident of his success at the primary. Judge Bartlett and Colonel Camp live in Paulding county. Colonel Edwards in Haralson, while Solicitor Fielder resides in Polk. SPRING VS. WINTER.

The Whole Face of the Universe Seems To Be Taking On an Air of Spring Time.

The winter dress of nature is rapidly arranging to make a change. Why should man be delinquent? Mr. Matthew Carroll, the popular tailor at 172 Peachtree street, has just returned from the markets and can promise the public one of the most beautiful lines that he has ever carried in Atlanta. Don't wait until the best is selected and all the workmen get busy. Go right away and make a selection and have one of the most beautiful suits in Atlanta, all ready for the near Easter days. ***

Americans Won Events.

Schutt, of Cornell university, was first in the mile run; time 4:28 3-5. Albert M. Stevens, of Willamantic, Conn., took second place in the hammer throwing contest.

Augusta Team Buys Norcom.

Nashville, Tenn., March 5.—(Special.)—Manager Mike Finn today sold Outfielder Norcom, of the locals, to the Augusta club, in the South Atlantic League. Norcom has accepted Augusta's terms and will report at once.

OLD PEOPLE CONSTANT SUFFERERS IN WINTER

Most old people are great sufferers in Winter. They are seldom free from pains or ailments of some description, because they are not as able to withstand the severity of the climate, with its damp, changing weather, as are their younger, more vigorous companions. Cold weather starts the old aches and pains; they suffer with chilly sensations, cold extremities, poor appetite and digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other afflictions peculiar to old age. With advancing years the strength and vitality of the system begin to decline. The heart action is weak and irregular, the blood becomes thin and sluggish in its circulation, and often some old blood taint that has lain dormant in the system for years begins to manifest itself. A wart or pimple becomes a troublesome sore or ulcer, skin diseases break out, or the slight rheumatic pains felt in younger days now cause sleepless nights and hours of agony. There is no reason why old age should not be healthy and free from disease if the blood is kept pure and the system strong, and this can be done with S. S. S. It is a medicine that is especially adapted to old people, because it is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying, healing and building-up properties, and is very mild and gentle in its action. S. S. S. warms and reinvigorates the sluggish blood so that it moves with more rapidity, and clears it of all impurities and poisons. As this rich, healthy stream circulates through the body every part of the system is built up, the appetite and digestion improve, the heart action increases and the diseases and discomforts of old age pass away. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, and all troubles arising from diseased blood.

Only Three Horses Faced the Starter.

Bullfinch Came Second, with Charlie Thompson in Third Place. Colt Field, in Second Race, Got Away with a Bad Start.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 5.—The feature at Oaklawn today was the mile handicap. Only three of the entries accepted the weights. Keene Bros.' Barbaros won the event with ease, after racing Bullfinch into submission.

The colt field in the second were sent away with a poor breakstorm, Jardiniere and Miss Martha being left at the post. Apprentice Jockey Callus rode the first two winners, and many believe that V. T. Gardner has found a coming rival for Radtke.

SHORT ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

THERE WAS TO HAVE BEEN A meeting of the board of directors of the Atlanta chamber of commerce this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. It has been postponed until the same hour on Friday, however, on account of the death of Major Mims. Sam D. Jones, president of the chamber of commerce, is a pallbearer, and it is expected that nearly if not quite all the directors will attend the funeral.

THE NOON-DAY SERVICES FOR business men which were inaugurated last Thursday by Bishop Nelson and the local clergy of the Protestant Episcopal church will be continued through Lent. The place of meeting, the old Georgia railroad city ticket office, at the corner of Wall and Pryor streets, opposite the Kimball house, is central, and the length of the service, which is only twenty minutes, from 12:10 to 12:30, enables business men to attend during the lunch hour. The Rev. C. T. A. Pise, dean of the Cathedral, will be the speaker for this week. General theme for the week, "Conditions of Soul-Growth."

AT WESTERN HEIGHTS BAPTIST church a series of revival meetings began last night, the services being conducted by Rev. J. R. Jester. Services commence every night at 7:30 o'clock.

CHIEF DEPUTY MARSHAL T. F. Laiche, of the United States district court at New Orleans, arrived in Atlanta yesterday with three convicts for the federal prison. They were Alfred Doyle, F. C. Farrington and William Lee. Farrington was found guilty of running a fake matrimonial agency and was sentenced to sixteen months and a fine of $250. The other two were found guilty of stealing United States mail.

MRS. H. F. BEAUMONT, OF 95 EAST avenue, was seriously hurt yesterday afternoon in one of the revolving doors of the Candler building. The door was revolved too rapidly for her and she was painfully bruised.

THE EVANGELICAL MINISTERS Alliance held its monthly meeting yesterday morning in the First Baptist church. The largest attendance it has had for some time was on hand. Several matters of importance came up for action, among them being the proposed fight to be made by the ministers on the sale of soda water and cigars on Sunday. The most important action of the meeting was to the effect that the association would cooperate with the Business Men's Gospel Union in every way possible to make the coming Torrey-Alexander meeting a success.

HORACE SURRENCY, THE YOUNG man who was charged with trying to embrace Miss Ella Walton, of Stockbridge, at the Terminal station Saturday night, was arraigned in the recorder's court yesterday afternoon. He was fined $25.75, which he paid. He denied knowing anything about the matter.

W. H. PRYSON, WHO WENT INTO the home of Rev. A. F. Ellington, 50 Orme street, Saturday night and frightened the minister's daughter, did not appear in the recorder's court, yesterday afternoon when the case was called. The officers explained that the man had been drinking, and had up a $10 cash bond. The bond was forfeited.

J. H. LANDERS, A FACTORY HAND who lives at 61 Clara street, was found by Call Officers Hulsey and Dorsett last night in front of his home with his head cut in several places. He refused to tell who cut him. The officers arrested J. E. Buchanan, who lives with Landers, but Buchanan claimed he knew nothing of the fight. A case was also made against Landers whose head had to be dressed by City Physician Wilkins.

THE BUSINESS COLLEGE ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION

The Southern Shorthand and Business University Booms.

WANTED—Stenographers and bookkeepers, salary $75 per month!

Three such applications were made upon the Southern Shorthand and Business University, of Atlanta, a day or two ago.

Besides these, numerous other applications for bookkeepers and stenographers have been made upon the same institution during the past few days, salaries ranging from $30 to $60 per month. One call was made yesterday for a young man to begin at $70 per month and his board.

There has never been such a great demand for office assistants as at the present time, consequently the Southern Shorthand University is kept busy looking after and supplying the needs of the business men. They prefer the Southern's graduates because the Southern's students are well qualified and have proved themselves thoroughly competent.

A young man took a course at the Southern two years and soon thereafter was stenographer in the office of one of the large railroad companies in Atlanta. He is now assistant city passenger and freight agent.

Another young man accepted a bookkeeper's position which the Southern secured for him a year ago at $50 per month; the first of January his salary was increased to $1.000 a year, so pleased were his firm with his services.

A young man started at $30 per month in an insurance office, after leaving the Southern, and in less than eighteen months he was receiving $100 per month.

A young lady graduate accepted a position at $35 per month, and in a few months the same firm paid her $60; another firm learned of her great efficiency and offered her $75 per month.

Thousands of similar cases as the foregoing could be cited, showing the great advantages of attending the Southern Shorthand and Business University. As one young man said: "I was offered a rate by another college just one-half that charged by the Southern, but I preferred attending the best school, therefore have entered the Southern."

Young people are entering the Southern Shorthand and Business University from all parts of the country, one young lady coming from Pennsylvania, another from Massachusetts and a young man from Louisiana during the past week.

Call or write at once for catalogue and enter now, the best time of the year to begin a business course. Address A. C. Briscoe, President; L. W. Arnold, Vice President, or B. C. Ansted, General Southern Agent, Atlanta, Ga. ***

HIGH SCHOOL LEADS LEAGUE

Junior Section of Basket Ball League Finishes Play.

Standing of Teams.

TEAMS—	Played.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
B. H. S.	6	4	2	.667
Y. M. C. A.	6	3	3	.500
G. M. A.	6	3	3	.500
Peacocks	6	2	4	.333

The junior section of the Atlanta basket ball league finished the season last night with two games at the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium, the Boys' High school five winning the pennant.

Next Friday night the senior section of the Atlanta basket ball league will wind up its season with two halves and two whole games at the Peachtree auditorium. The halves are the result of an accident last Friday night, when a broken basket prevented the completion of the contests.

In the halves to be played the Young Men's Christian Association team will meet the Soldiers and the Athletics will tackle the Techs; in the whole games, the Young Men's Christian Association team and Tech and the Athletics and the Soldiers are the clubs booked.

The play in the junior section of the league has been exceedingly close ever since the first game. The clubs have been more evenly matched in strength than in the senior section, thus making the fight a more interesting one.

Last night the Georgia Military academy was defeated by the Boys' High school five by the score of 11 to 6, while the Young Men's Christian Association team piled up 11 points to 15 for the Peacocks.

STATE DIVISION NOT ORGANIZED

Department Will Be Perfected at the Meeting Today.

A Georgia division of the National Ginners' Association, the organization of which was contemplated yesterday, was not perfected, but a thorough and final completion of a state department is expected today.

A number of ginners from various sections of the state appeared at the Kimball yesterday to take part in the organization, invitations having been issued some time ago by N. T. Blackwell, of Dallas, Tex., secretary of the National Ginners' Association. Later in the day messages indicated that a misunderstanding as to the date had been created and the opinion of those present was that the meeting should be postponed for a day in order that others might reach the city.

The ginners' association has for its object an accurate report of the number of bales of cotton made ready by the gins for the market. The object of the national association is the establishment of an organization in each cotton growing state, through which the executive officers of each state will know exactly and accurately the output of cotton.

"So far I have been given the strongest encouragement in every section I have visited," said Secretary Blackwell yesterday, "and from my Georgia correspondence I have every reason to think that the Empire State of the South will soon have one of the strongest home or local associations on our rolls."

The meeting will be called to order this morning in one of the assembly rooms at the Kimball.

THE THEATERS.

The Grand.

"The Ham Tree" was heartily enjoyed by a good house at the Grand last night. The production is unique, and for that reason went all the better.

It is a sort of combination negro minstrels and comic opera, McIntyre and Heath and Belle Gold assuming the burnt cork roles and the remainder of the company, which was excellent, as well as large, appearing in the usual musical comedy attire.

McIntyre and Heath furnish enough fun to make a good show by itself, and they rarely failed to keep the house in a laugh. There were only a few antiques among their jokes, and in the last act, particularly, where they appear as "the rajah and rajarette," their make-up was ludicrous in the extreme.

Jobyna Howland, as Mrs. Nickelbacker and W. C. Fields, as the mysterious Sherlock Baffles, furnished the largest part of the comedy aside from that emanating from McIntyre and Heath.

The chorus was unusually good. Almost every girl in it was good looking and they sang well. The costumes looked bright and new and several of the dances and ensembles, especially the minstrel parade, were gorgeous.

A musical event of unusual interest will take place at the Grand on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 7 and 8, when Miss Alice Nielsen appears with a special company of European artists in Donizetti's comedy opera, "Don Pasquale." This charming little actress had the courage of her convictions enough to leave a very successful career as a comic opera singer to go abroad and devote herself to hard study for work on a higher plane. When she emerged from her self-imposed oblivion she met immediate success in the European capitals as a star in the lighter forms of grand opera. Now she has returned to her own country, where she was formerly well liked as a comedienne. Her selection of "Don Pasquale" is a particularly happy one. Its revival coincident with her own reappearance is appropriate. Also the part of Norma, the coquetish minx who tricks Don Pasquale into a false marriage, is appropriat eto Miss Nielsen's own petite and pretty type. There can be no doubt that Miss Nielsen's appearance here will be greeted by an enormous audience, as evidenced by the big demand for seats. The affair, socially and musically, will be quite the event of the season.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe, who are to appear Friday and Saturday at the Grand, are now displaying their talents in roles quite new to them, this being the first season of their fresh impersonations. But they have already won fame in them and are upholding worthily the high standard manifested in their efforts a year ago. This fine coalition of splendid histrionic talent, brought about by Charles Frohman, is being fully appreciated, too, by all classes of playgoers eager to witness these illuminating illustrations of the work of the most famous dramatist of all ages. The representations cannot fail to enrich the knowledge of Shakespearian scholars, for the reason that Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe, who are in no sense slaves to tradition, fill their work with novelty and throw many new lights on the characters selected for impersonation. The scenic equipment of "The Merchant of Venice," "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Romeo and Juliet," the plays to be presented here, will be unusually rich and historically accurate in every particular. The sale will open Wednesday morning.

The Bijou.

An audience of the most representative people packed the Bijou last night, as it has not been very many times before. It was something more than the usual Monday night gathering, for Mary Marble had returned to her own.

Miss Mary Marble, the "Nancy Brown," was given a rousing reception when she made her rather unexpected and quiet appearance. She is as clever and as charming as she has ever been, and her efforts were received with marked attention, and thoroughly applouded. There is no doubt but that the clever comedienne is alone in her field. She is certainly gifted, and when she played to an audience like the gathering of last night she used every talent and put in all the spirit of her charming ability. And Mary Marble is a greater favorite than ever before.

Will Manderville and Ben Lodge were entirely acceptable in the leading comedian parts. Both are clever character comedians, and Manderville scored a telling hit in one of his specialties. Robert Harty, Johnny Johnson, Frank Gaven, David Andrada and E. W. Ross were well received as old friends, and Osborn Clemson, a new comer, was made to feel at home.

Florrie Clements, who played a dainty soubrette, soon made herself liked, while the beautiful and charming Rose Barnet has a right to mingle with the popular class.

And the chorus, a regular collection of musical maidens, with the Ode Harlan mannerism, showed too well that that clever comedian and stage director has trained and drilled them in excellent dancing and march numbers. There are several of the former maidens in the corps, including Vera Belmont, Byrdie Fisher, Estelle Rodgers, Bertha Burlingham, Monte Blair and Catherine Melton.

"Nancy Brown" will play to the capacity of the Bijou at the two performances today and the rest of the schedule during the week.

Star Theater.

Songsters galore and good ones were very much in evidence at last night's performance at the Star Theater. The new vaudeville numbers are all good, and were very enthusiastically received. ***

Seaboard's New City Ticket Office.

On March 1st the Seaboard Air Line City Ticket Office will be moved to the English-American Flatiron Building, corner Broad and Peachtree streets. ***

RUBE RAYMOND ARRIVES.

Third Baseman Hoffman Is Expected To Report in Atlanta for Work This Afternoon.

Rube Raymond has reported for duty at Piedmont park. He says that he is in first-class shape for the coming season, and that the man who beats him out of a place on the staff will have to do some of the very tallest kind of hustling.

He brings the information that Hoffman will report for duty this afternoon. Rube and Hoff will room together until the regular season starts.

It is very likely that George Winters and Burnum will not reach the city until next Monday morning. Evers, Raymond and Smith will probably enjoy a little preliminary practice at Piedmont this morning.

Considerate.

Mrs. Blank has a perfectly angelic disposition!"

"Yes; I meet her so often at bargain sales and she never attempts to grab things out of other women's hands, before they're through with them."

SEES SNAKES BY THOUSANDS

Bad Case of a Man With Mental Reptiles Found by Police.

About the worse case of a man with snakes that ever showed up at the police barracks was there last night when J. M. Smith, a carpenter, arrived with his manager.

Smith was found by the police in a saloon making frantic efforts to kill snakes which he saw all around him and all over him. He had torn off his coat and was trying to tear off his shirt.

At the police barracks, Smith began to talk about his snakes. He stated that he had seen enough snakes to fill the state capitol.

"I don't know where I live," he explained. "I used to live on the Boulevard with my wife, but she moved away and left me this morning just because she was tired of me, I reckon. Before she left I tried to show her the snakes in the room. They crawled out of the holes in the wall until the floor was covered with them. Then they got on me, and they have been all over me ever since. Gentlemen, I have gone to raising snakes whether I want to or not. Five thousand are born on me every minute, and they crawl off until the whole town is getting full of them."

Smith said he had not taken a drink in two weeks, but was on a spree before then. He was trembling from nervousness but talked calmly about his selection of reptiles. He was treated last night by City Physician Wilkins.

An Expert.

(From The Washington Star.)

"Are you one of the expert witnesses?" inquired the court officer.

"I am," answered the high financier. "I've been on the stand two hours and haven't told them a thing."

His Majesty The Silk Worm

Today in The Dress Goods Department The Silks Will Hold Full Sway

An Exposition --- A Silk Textile Education If You Will Take The Time To Study The New Weaves.

Extreme efforts and centuries of knowledge seem to have crystallized into the most exquisite silks that have ever come here to make up a Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Stock. Diversifed, comprehensive, teeming with novelties, and heralded with unsurpassable values. Our silk buyer was certainly inspired and enthused by the wonderful possibilities in the silk market. With the best silks in the world to buy from and the greatest silk department in the South to buy for, unhampered and unhindered, we have called upon the looms of the world for their richest treasures. Marvels in spinning and coloring.

Look here, look there, this morning; stand at this side, or over there--some new surprise is there for you. For today the silks will hold full sway. Festoons and cascades of iridescent color; great heaps of soft delightful, delicate, shimmering stuffs in dainty evening shades. Clear, firm, strong weaves in street shades. New faces and old friends in new dress, but above and beyond all the greatest silk showing that you have ever seen.

Radium

One of "the things"—the ultra new is "Radium"—beauty and variety are equal attractions in Radium.

Radium as sheer as a weave in washable Jap silk; graceful, diaphanous, and sweeping.

In solid colors, pastel shades, dainty hair line stripes sprinkled over with figures indiscriminately, and regardless of stripes.

Radium in heavier silk with small checks and Jacquard figures or printed design upon white ground.

Evening or street shades from neat effects to great floral patterns or a tiny Dresden rosebud or pin dot to a surprising Persian motif; or again a white or colored ground crossed and recrossed by a multitude of hairline.

Stripes

There's no question about the vogue of fancy silks of attractive quality—Paris says stripes—stripes and checks.

And whatever Paris dictates, silk weavers set about to surprise even Paris herself.

Stripes that begin with a single thread hardly distinguishable to the eye; stripes an eight of an inch wide, a half inch, an inch, two, three, four inches, stripes so wide that they at last become borders taking up half the width of the silk.

Messaline Finished Louisine

Messaline finished Louisine—you know the weave—delightfully soft and beautiful.

Add to this the Messaline high finish and you have the shimmer, the glisten and glint of sunshine itself.

Here you have the tiny stripes combined with allover floral designs—shadow figures, as it were, for so delicately are they printed that as the light catches folds and billows of the silk the design is lost entirely.

These come also in gray grounds with white stripes and Jacquard figures.

Plaids

Take the extremes and make your own deductions. There are plaids or checks formed by single threads crossing so closely that at first glance they seem a solid color, and block checks made by stripes half an inch wide of gray or black upon a white ground—pronounced indeed but softened most artistically by rose buds strewn hit or miss over the surface.

Broken plaids with groups of black hairlines crossing both ways in plaids six inches square, themselves crossed and recrossed by stripes of lavender or sprinkled with rose buds in delicate pink and pale green.

Print warp taffetas and Louisine on white or tinted grounds, patterns similar in character to those of flowered organdies.

A nosegay of roses, a single wreath or wreaths linked with wreaths in a profusion of delicate shades.

The Turnip Shade

In these warp-print Silks are all the new shades—the "Turnip" and "Alice Gray." The former a very fetching shade of tan and the latter a silvery gray.

These print-warp Taffetas know no limits in the size of figures—there are American beauty roses with stem and leaves, life size, laid upon white background; gorgeous, splendid.

Stripes Again

Stripes again—for instance, a group of quarter-inch bands with a Persian stripe between.

And then stripes run riot—three-inch Persian bands alternating with solid colors or hairlines.

A three-inch stripe of closely clustered Peach blossoms with a silvery gray flecked with white between, as though the weaver had drawn his inspiration from some peach tree in full bloom.

And so they go, culminating in the highest novelty of the season—

A French Chiffon Messaline; white ground with tiny white Jacquard figure, small blue polka dots and a Persian border thirteen inches wide.

Ombre Stripes

In the stripes come the Ombre Silks—Ombre backgrounds in wide stripes of chocolate or blue with an over design of Dresden figures.

Odd designs that bring an air of silk of fifty years ago—designs in tune with the solid mahogany and hair cloth furniture days of our grandmothers.

Gun metal with stripes of white and black both ways and tiny rose buds is another novelty that is very new.

For Shirtwaists, Etc.

In less elaborate silks; weaves for the less pretentious shirtwaist and silk suit.

Look at some of them closely—stripes and checks here again. Thread stripes and checks so fine that they are lost in a blur of color.

Or hairlines grouped so closely together that they appear as one wide stripe.

Chiffon Chameleon Taffeta and Chiffon Glace Louisine in "mingled-up" checks and plaids and what weavers call "Gingham effects."

Light and dark colors and all the color combinations that an artist could combine or loom weave.

Swiss Chameleon Louisines in three tones that shimmer and change in every fold.

Plain Silks galore. Poplin, Chiffon Taffeta, Messaline, Bond Faille, Moire Taffeta, Bond Taffetas, Glace and Chameleon Taffeta, Changeable Poplin Rajah, and then we have only generalized about the aggregation.

PRAIRIES SWEPT BY FIERCE FIRES

Hundreds of Head of Cattle Are Destroyed.

Panhandle District of Texas Is Visited by Most Disastrous Fires, 500,000 Acres of Land Having Been Already Burned.

Austin, Texas, March 5.—Information was received here today to the effect that most disastrous prairie fires had swept the extreme western section of the panhandle for the past three days, entailing a loss up to the present time of upwards of $1,000,000. The fire did the most damage in Lamb and Hookley counties, burning many acres of land and destroying hundreds of head of cattle.

Inasmuch as it will be six weeks before the spring grass will come forth, it has been found necessary for all cattlemen in that section to move their cattle into New Mexico for range purposes, which means considerable loss to them. It is estimated that in the past three days 500,000 acres of land have been burned.

Olsen To Meet Link.

Asheville, N. C., March 5.—Charles Olsen, who tonight defeated Billy Edwards at Knoxville, Tenn., in a wrestling match, will meet Shad Link, of Baltimore, in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match in this city on Wednesday night for a purse of $500 and the gate receipts.

Bunau-Varilla Presses Plan.

New York, March 5.—Philippe Bunau-Varilla, who was the first minister of Panama to Washington, has addressed a long letter to President Roosevelt, advocating his project for the construction of the Panama canal, which he submitted to the president last March, and which subsequently was rejected by the international consulting board of engineers. Mr. Bunau-Varilla's letter is a reiteration of his previous argument in favor of his scheme for constructing the waterway, which he has termed the "Straits of Panama," and a criticism of the report of the consulting board.

SPLENDID WORK FOR THE SCHOOLS

South Shows Up Well, Says Alabama Officers.

Progress Made in Education Along Lines of Better Superintendency and High-Class Teaching. Dixie Ceases To Be a Laggard.

Montgomery, Ala., March 5.—(Special.)—State Superintendent of Education I. W. Hill and Secretary of the State Board of Examiners of his Department William F. Feagin have returned from the meeting of the superintendents' division of the National Educational Association, held last week in Louisville, Ky., greatly elated over the indications of educational progress in the south, shown at the meeting. They found that every stat eof Dixie was there with enthusiastic delegations, and that the whole trend seems to be toward better superintendency and better teachers, with more pay for all, in the southern section. Note is made of the south because it has been, until recent years, a laggard in matters of this kind, letting other older states get the lead and keep it.

Both Mr. Hill and Mr. Feagin were impressed with the interest shown by Alabamans, there being twenty of them at the meeting. The state of Florida paid the expenses of every county superintendent to go to the meeting, and Louisiana came up with half a hundred to get the instruction that was given. There is much inspiration in the record from Louisiana. There they have recently made all county superintendents salaried men, paying from $1,000 to $2,500, instead of $600 to $2,500, as formerly. This has had the effect of getting good men, and they are giving the schools high-class and effective service.

"A little knowledge is a dangerous thing," said the man who quotes.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "especially when it's something that a queer publisher happens to know about you."

GORMAN NOT IN SHAPE FOR ANY ACTIVE WORK

Not Believed That Maryland Senator Can Play Prominent Part in Coming Events of Interest in Congress.

By Joe: Ohl.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(Special.) That Senator Gorman will take practically no part in shaping the course of the important legislation now pending before this session of the fifty-ninth congress is the belief of those acquainted with his condition.

He must divorce himself from business and political affairs for a considerable time to come. Some weeks ago his physician made the threat that unless Mr. Gorman cut himself loose for political worries he would pack him down south to some health resort. The threat appears to have had effect, for since that time Mr. Gorman has held himself religiously to the course mapped out for him by the doctors.

That mandate from the physician came just after a visit made to the Gorman home by Senator Blackburn and several other senators, who talked over with him the Dominican treaty situation.

Since then some of the senate leaders on the democratic side, notably Mr. Bailey, have been anxious to talk over the general legislative situation, and especially that part of it which has reference to the railroad rate legislation, but not once of them has been granted an interview.

CITY SENDS PHYSICIANS TO OUST DIVINE HEALERS

CHICAGO, March 5.—The city health department is justified in forcibly interfering in cases of extreme sickness, where the services of a physician are refused by relatives of the invalid according to an opinion rendered today by Corporation Counsel Lewis.

Since the advent of John Alexander Dowie in Chicago many cases of this nature have been brought to the notice of the city authorities, but no definite action has ever been taken until today, when prayer, instead of medicine or surgery, was used in the treatment of Mrs. Ella Turner, 815 Addison avenue, a believer in Dowie's teachings.

The woman had been suffering for over twenty-four hours, and her life was in imminent peril, as her condition called for an immediate operation. Instead of calling a physician, the woman's husband and relatives appealed to Overseer Voliva, of Zion City, who sent one of his deacons to pray for the patient.

The woman's cries of pain attracted a neighbor, who reported the case to the police. The police at once advised the health department. Health Commissioner Charles J. Whalen secured from Corporation Counsel Lewis an opinion that the health department was justified in interfering in such an extreme case, and sent a physician to attend the woman; and her suffering was stopped.

RECORD QUESTION ASKED; REQUIRED OVER AN HOUR

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 5.—The most striking feature of today's session of the Matthews trial was a question which needed just one hour and ten minutes for its propounding, making what is believed to be, by those who listened to it, a record sentence. The author of it was Major Guthrie, counsel for the defense, and the occasion the calling to the stand of Dr. James McKee, of Raleigh, as insane expert. The question reviewed the life of the prisoner, of those of his ancestors, who had displayed symptoms which the defense put forth as evidence of insanity, and the acts of the prisoner on the day of the death of his wife.

The three chief witnesses of the day, in addition to Dr. McKee, were Mrs. J. N. Gorman, sister of the prisoner; Dr. J. W. Griffith and the undertaker, E. Poole.

CLYDE STEAMER ON THE SHOALS

The Navajo Is Hard Aground Near Cape Fear.

Wilmington, N. C., March 5.—While proceeding at sea Saturday evening the Clyde line steamer Navajoe, Captain C. M. Hale, was caught in a southwest gale just inside the Cape Fear bar and was driven ashore on middle shoal about the same location were the schooner General Albert Ames foundered about three weeks ago. Unsuccessful efforts were made by the United States revenue cutter Seminole, the tugs Marion and Blanche and the steamer Compton to float the vessel Sunday and again today with the further assistance of the Standard Oil tug Astral.

The vessel was drawing 17 feet of water and is hard ashore in 7 feet at low water. The cargo, consisting principally of lumber and naval stores, is being lightered and a further attempt will be made to float the vessel on high tide tomorrow morning. The vessel is lying easy and is in no peril with favorable weather. Seymour Mercell, of Wilmington, was the only passenger aboard and returned to this city on the tugs, proceeding by rail to New York. The night was dark and there was a driving rain storm. Captain Hale says it was impossible for him to keep his bearings and about 7 o'clock the steamer was driven hard and fast, the bow being headed in.

VOTING TRUSTS' ACTS LEGAL.

Ryan-Williams Fight Over Seaboard Said To Be Involved.

Richmond, Va., March 5.—The Phlegar amendment to the voting trust bill, which became a law without Governor Montague's approval, in 1903, was taken up by the senate today, engrossed and passed, after the Sears amendment, invalidating the action of voting trusts previous to the Caton bill, had been defeated on a viva voce vote. The Phlegar amendment makes legal the acts of voting trusts previous to the Caton bill, but hereafter limits them to five years.

It was said in the course of the debate that the old Thomas F. Ryan-John Skelton Williams fight over the Seaboard railway was involved in the amendments.

No Increased Acreage.

Montgomery, Ala., March 3.—(Special.)—Colonel Robert R. Poole, commissioner of agriculture who is here today, is of the opinion that while there have been large sales of fertilizers in the month of February, there will be no more acreage in cotton than last year. He is informed that the question of labor is as bad as it was last year, and that many who had farm hands then have not now. He is also informed that much of the fertilizer is put under other crops of cotton "You may say," continued Colonel Poole, "that there will not be, unless I am badly fooled, any more real acreage in cotton this year than last, surely than the year before, and I believe that we are going to have vastly more breadstuffs and other things needed at home this year than we have ever had."

There is a disposition to raise cattle and other stock now that did not exist before, and it is dove-tailing in with conditions so well as to look like providence The lands that are poor and do not yield handsomely are put into pasturage and made to bring up the stock. This leaves more help to tend the richer lands, and they make more crops, the result being that both ways return greater revenue while the lands used as pastures are becoming more fertile all the time. The year "looks good" to Colonel Poole, so far as the farmers are concerned.

KOBRE'S DEATH CAUSES ARRESTS

Brother of Dead Man and William Plain Are Held.

Winston-Salem, N. C., March 5.—Sam Kobre and William Plain were arrested tonight on the charge of murdering Henry Kobre, in his room over his restaurant, on Sunday night, January 21.

Sam Kobre is a brother of the murdered man, while Plain, his alleged accomplice, who is clerk in a bar room here, was married in Greensboro this afternoon. He was arrested immediately after his arrival tonight with his bride.

The evidence against the two defendants was obtained by the police from Sallie Stewart, a white girl, who has been in the custody of the officers since Saturday. Her story is to the effect that she and Sam Kobre have been intimate friends for some time, and that he told her all about how the crime was committed.

According to the Stewart woman, Kobre and Plain had an assistant. Two men held Henry Kobre while the third man beat him to death with a pick or bar of iron, which was found next day after the murder, with blood on one end of it.

After the crime, Henry Kobre was robbed. The Stewart woman also tells the police that she was promised by Sam Kobre $500 not to reveal the information given her.

The woman formerly cooked for M. Kobre, another brother of the murdered man. Sallie Stewart, after being told of the arrest of the two men, wept and declared she would never testify against them. Kobre and Plain will probably be given a hearing before a magistrate tomorrow. A reward of $1,600 has been offered for the capture and conviction of the parties who killed Henry Kobre. Half of this amount was pledged by M. Kobre, who conducts a bar room here.

THE CARELESS GROCER

Blundered, and Great Good Came of It.

A careless grocer left the wrong package at a Michigan home one day and thereby brought a great blessing to the household.

"Two years ago I was a sufferer from stomach trouble, so acute that the effort to digest ordinary food gave me great pain, and brought on a condition of such extreme nervousness that I could not be left alone. I thought I should certainly become insane. I was so reduced in flesh that I was little better than a living skeleton. The doctors failed to give me relief and I despaired of recovery.

"One day our groceryman left a package of Grape-Nuts food by mistake, so I tried a dish for dinner. I was surprised to find that it satisfied my appetite and gave me no distress whatever. The next meal I ate of it again, and to be brief, I have lived for the past year almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. It has proved to be a most healthy and appetizing food, perfectly adapted to the requirements of my system.

"It is not only easily digested and assimilated itself, but I find that since I have been using it I am able to eat anything else my appetite fancies, without trouble from indigestion. The stomach trouble and nervousness have left me. I have regained my plumpness and my views of life are no longer despondent and gloomy. Other members of my family, especially my husband (whose old enemy the 'heartburn' has been vanquished) have also derived great benefit from the use of Grape-Nuts food, and we think no morning meal complete without it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome, and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

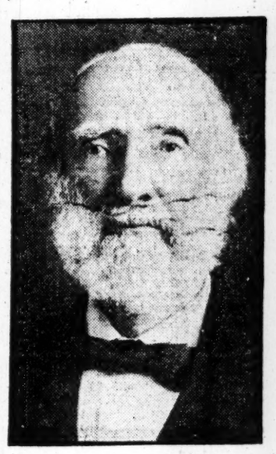

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

The Victims of This Railway Accident Were Hurled to Death.

Fairmont, W. Va., March 5.—Three men were burned to death in a wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio short line at Smithfield, W. Va., late this morning. The Baltimore and Ohio officials here late tonight were told by the company's wire that a freight engine at Smithfield, on the short line division, had turned over and that the engineer, fireman and brakeman were buried under the engine.

Growing Lemons in Kentucky.

S. H. McMakin, one of the best-known residents of Shelby county, is convinced that lemons can be raised in Kentucky, as he has grown them himself. One specimen measures 13 inches in circumference. Mr. McMakin planted a slip sent him by a friend in New York and obtained several lemons of great size. They require too much attention to be grown in Kentucky to any extent, but a few can be raised without difficulty.

MINER SHOOTS OUT LAMP AND IS BURNED TO DEATH

BLUEFIELD, W. VA., March 5. Fire destroyed several store rooms, a saloon and a number of shacks at Norwood Sunday morning. The fire started by an exploding lamp, a miner, whose name is unknown, shooting at it rather than get out of bed and put it out. The man was burned to death. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

That is why this year you can buy three magazines that fit the needs of every home for half price.

COTTON CLOSED QUIET AND LOWER

Offerings Heavy But Were Well Absorbed Early.

Market Moved Irregularly Within a Narrow Range, Closing Near the Bottom 7 to 13 Points Net Lower for the Day. Trade Less Active.

New York, March 5.—The cotton mareket was not very active today and ruled irregular within a comparatively narrow range. The close was at a net decline of 7@13 points and sales were estimated at 200,000 bales. The market opened easy at a decline of 4@9 points in response to lower cables, continued good weather in the south and predictions that the spot demand would fall off following the big business of last month. Offerings were quite heavy, including the realising of last week's buyers and some selling by local bears, but were very well absorbed at first by the buying of Liverpool and New Orleans local bull support and covering. After the Houston estimate for tomorrow was received indicating a rather heavier movement the market eased off another 3 or 4 points, but rallied in the early afternoon on the continued demand from stock exchange houses and reports of a good spot demand, selling up to some 7 to 8 points from the lowest. Prices eased off again toward the close, however, and were finally within a point or two of the bottom with the tone quiet.

New Orleans Cotton Market.

New Orleans, March 5.—Spot cotton continues in good demand. Sales 4,700 bales, including 1,200 to arrive and 500 f. o. b. Quotations of ordinary to low middling reduced 1-16c. Other grades unchanged; middling 10¾c.

Futures opened easy at a decline of 6 to 7 points on unfavorable cables. At the noon call prices had receded 3 points additional and during the afternoon eased off a few points more. The trading was light. The market closed quiet at the bottom with net losses of 13 to 14 points.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, March 5.—Business in the dry goods market today was slow of execution and restricted in volume owing to completion of spring buying by western jobbers and the tendency of general buyers to operate cautiously. Manufacturers' agents maintained prices stiffly on leading lines in the face of the restricted business.

The Liverpool Cotton Market.

Liverpool, March 5.—12.15 p. m.—Cotton, spot, good business done with prices easier; middling upland 5.90; sales 12,000 bales; American 11,500; speculation and export 1,000; receipts 19,000; American 13,000.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, March 5.—COTTON—The decline in Liverpool was wholly unexpected, and our market as a result showed some weakness at the opening, though with still considerable innate strength. Wall street influenced by its own weakness and sellers became the more numerous without, however, showing much aggressiveness. Dullness followed the moderate activity, the undertone was steady, receipts are falling off. Liverpool cables that business is interfered with by Egyptian manipulation in consequence of bulls reselling spot overestimated. Despite the disappointment abroad and in the stock market, there is no disposition to depress prices, which seem to have reached a safe level.

Ware & Leland.

New York, March 5.—COTTON—Following the sharp advance of Saturday, during which the larger proportion of the professional short interest covered their cotton, there was a decidedly easier market this morning, with large quantities of cotton thrown overboard during the early trading owing to the unexpected decline in Liverpool and the absence of general business on the advance. In some ways the trading was no more active than during the quiet days when prices were near the bottom last week. That is to say, the advance failed to convince operators of a radical change in the cotton position, and as long as this is the case the general public can hardly be expected to come in on an advance of half a cent and buy back the cotton sold out during the slump. At this season of the year, with warmer weather in the south and crop preparations getting under way, there are many reasons for believing that 11 cents for July cotton represents a substantially high price from the standpoint of both producer and consumer. The acreage this season will be one of the largest unquestionably on record, and under these circumstances it is difficult to understand just wherein the encouragement is to be derived for bullish speculation at planting season. If we have a backward spring and the new crop gets any kind of a start, there may of course be trouble in the way of getting the new crop under way, in which event shorts would be compelled to cover at rapidly advancing prices. But when cotton can be produced at 7c a pound, and we have one of the largest world's supplies on record, and the acreage to be planted will soon loom up with very large figures, we are not disposed to look with great favor on cotton purchases as July gets toward 11c. The market seems to be in a position where any effort to sell March cotton now would cause another slump in prices.

New York, March 5.—STOCKS—A flood of liquidation, entirely unexpected by us, came upon the market this morning. It was concentrated in stocks mentioned as vulnerable, but prevented the irregular improvement anticipated by us. Those who followed the individual position, as recommended from time to time with the general rule of a trading policy, were saved from losing the entire advantage, however, for the liquidation, which seemed to us to come from pool quarters through calling of loans, started at the beginning, and concentrated in Amalgamated, Reading, Locomotive and one or two other issues. In surveying the list it will be found that certain low-priced issues and a few specialties held remarkably well, and those stocks included issues which had suffered a severe decline. We think the market is nearing bottom now, and while irregularity and trading market is of course likely to continue for a time, there was such a heavy volume today that the technical indications prophesy at least temporary culmination to be imminent with a rally when the market becomes oversold.

Gibert & Clay.

New Orleans, March 5.—COTTON—The ease with which prices declined in the foreign market was directly traceable to the liquidation of some long commitments, and options lost 6 points from Saturady's close. The continued excellence of spot transactions is again evident by sales of 12,000 bales at a decline of 2 points. The lower opening in our own market is mostly sympathetic in character, as Liverpool had failed to do her full share in meeting expectations. The undertone ruled firm throughout, but there being no speculative interest noticeable, a rather limited amount of business was done. The continued absence of good grade offerings of spot cotton in the face of a steady demand for such types is a peculiar situation which is causing some little nervousness in the ranks of exporters who have commitments to fulfill. The past week weather conditions have been more favorable than otherwise for farm work, although in some localities progress has been retarded through excessive moisture. Forecasts for today and tomorrow are rather indicative of further rains and unfavorable weather generally, which should exert some temporary influence upon market prices, as the trade seems to display more sensitiveness to reports from this source than to other momentary causes.

New York, March 5.—STOCKS—The Market was visited by another wave of selling pressure today, which appeared to be a further development of liquidation which began Saturday after the bank statement. Foreign markets acted in sympathy with our own, London being weakened for Americans. Paris also was a heavy seller of Americans, but London operators bought on balance in our market perhaps 15,000 shares. Support to Union Pacific, St. Paul and Lead were about the only trading noted, and while a somewhat steadier tone prevailed during the second hour of the afternoon there were no signs of the enlargement of inspired support from important directions. Meantime the market has ceased obedience to favorable influences and is being ruled by lack of both public and professional interest in support of values. The main cause for this is the conviction that the spirit of the times and of legislation is against the increasing wealth of corporations, evidence of which feeling is being reflected in all legislative bodies. That the majority of good stocks are more strongly held than earlier in the year is an obvious conclusion, and this is a condition which should gradually work in favor of stability.

Sentiment Was Extremely Bearish at the Opening.

Report of Money Panic in Some Centers of Europe Because of Possible War Between France and Germany Caused a Recovery.

Chicago, March 5.—Rumors of a possible war in Europe and a decreased estimate of the exportable surplus of wheat in Argentina were the chief factors in creating a steady tone today in the local wheat market after a weak opening. At the close wheat for May was off 1-8@1-4c. Corn was up 3-8c. Oats were 1-8c higher. Provisions were 10@27 1-2c higher.

During the first hour of trading prices declined sharply and sentiment in the wheat pit was extremely bearish. Selling was general while about the only support came from shorts. Weekly statistics were favorable to lower prices, the world's shipments being large and the amount of breakstuffs on passage showed an increase of 632,000 bushels. The continental markets were all lower, and Liverpool showed a decline of 1d. In addition, weather conditions in the United States were considered favorable for the new crop. Toward the end of the first hour the selling pressure became less pronounced and the demand improved. This resulted in a slight rally in prices. Late news was more favorable to the bulls. Advices claiming that the European money centers were in a condition of semi-panic because of a possibility of war between France and Germany were received and exerted a powerful influence in steadying the market. "Another factor for higher prices was an estimate for Argentina showing that the exportable surplus is much below previous estimates. It was also reported that 42 boat loads of wheat had been purchased in New York for export. The market closed steady with prices slightly below the final quotations of Saturday. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 115,000 bushels. The visible supply increased 381,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 637,000, compared with 379,000 one year ago.

Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 531 cars, against 714 last week and 384 one year ago.

Early in the day the corn market was weak in sympathy with wheat, and there was considerable selling on advices from Argentina that the crop there is expected to yield a large surplus for export. The market, however, was well supported by shorts and commission houses. During the last hour an advance of 1-4c in the price of cash corn stimulated the demand for options, and the market closed firm with prices at the highest point of the day. May opened 1-8@1-4c to 1-4c lower at 42 3-8@42 1-2c to 42 1-2c; sold up to 43 1-8 and closed at 43@43 1-8. Local receipts were 275 cars with 7 of contract grade.

The oats market was easy at the opening, but later a firmer tone developed on a fairly active demand by pit traders and commission houses. An advance of 1-4@1-2 in the price of cash oats stiffened the market. The close was firm. May opened 1-8@1-4c lower at 29 3-4@29 1-8, advanced to 30 1-8c and closed at the highest point. Local receipts were 240 cars.

Provisions were strong all day. Prices of live hogs were higher because of diminished arrivals, and this fact apparently held up the entire market. Local pack

DECLINE IN SOME ISSUES SEVERE

Stocks Thrown Over by Wholesale at Heavy Sacrifices.

There Was a Rally Late in Session on Shorts Covering—Was Not Well Held and the Closing Tone Was Rather Easy.

New York, March 5.—A penalty was paid in today's stock market for some of the excesses of the past speculation. The paying of the penalty must be the more unpalatable as coming in the midst of the fruition of the expectations on which the original speculation was based. Incoming reports from all quarters sustained the conviction of the unparalleled level of the country's prosperity. Nevertheless, stocks were thrown over today by wholesale at heavy sacrifices and at severe speculative losses. The slump of today was a culmination of the more gradual declining tendency last week. There was not much news of any substantial character to account for the decline. The failure of Saturday's market to rally on the decision of the treasury department to deposit $10,000,000 in national banks was a keen disappointment to the belated speculative holders, who were hoping for a check to the decline. The opening of the week disclosed the continuance of the factors of depletion of bank reserves. Rather gloomy predictions were heard of the outlook for an anthracite strike and the special weakness of Reading was attributed to this cause. The liquidation in Amalgamated Copper was supposed to come from interests concerned in the settlement of the Montana copper districts, and cynical discussion was heard of the possible auspices of the decline in this stock. The market in the latter part of the day showed some evidence of the relief afforded by the liquidation, and the bear traders were inclined to buy to cover their short contracts. This caused some recovery from the day's extreme decline, which ran to over 8 points in Reading and between 4 to 5 points in Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting, Northern Pacific Great Northern preferred, Colorado Fuel and a few others. Declines ranged very generally from 1 to 3 points. The late rally was not well held, and the closing tone was rather easy.

CEYLON TEA
GREEN or BLACK
Comes to your table laden with purity, not adulteration. The constant agitation of the pure food question gives tea drinkers a better understanding of the hygienic value of machine rolled Ceylon tea. The absolute absence of adulterants and the use of scientific machinery in its preparation for the table insure perfect purity and perfect cleanliness.

HOW TO MAKE IT.—Use half the quantity as of other tea, fresh boiling water. Steep four or five minutes.
